President On Second Tour Of Inspection

Trip To Army Training Centers Has Been Under Way For Week

SOUTHERN AREAS HAVE BEEN TOURED

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(I. N. S Staff Correspondent)

ABOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S SPECIAL INSPECTION TRAIN, April 20.—President Roosevelt is on his second war time inspection tour of service camps and war plants in the United States.

Traveling 'off the record' for seven days, correspondents accompanying the president were permitted today to announce news of his trip as the half-way mark was reached.

At a special conference in his private car, President Roosevelt evidenced great satisfaction with the progress of the military training program and declared that troops he had seen so far would do a good job in Europe.

Receive Better Training

Soldiers, sailors and marines, he asserted, are receiving training far more thorough than during the first world war, and those now going overseas are ready to take part in the fighting when they land.

In contrast, he pointed to the World War I experience, when American soldiers after being shipped abroad, had to undergo training only a short distance behind the lines before they could be thrown into battle.

The men look awfully fit, Mr. Roosevelt declared, adding that he had found their morale very, very high.

The president slipped silently out of Washington Tuesday, April 13, and since that time Mr. Roosevelt has reviewed troops at Parris Island, S. C.; Fort Benning, Ga.; Maxwell

Seventy-Five WAACs Per Month New Quota For New Castle Area

The week of April 18 to 24 marks the opening drive here to meet doubled WAAC quotas all over the United States, it was announced by Lt. Col. Joseph N. Marx, Commanding Officer of the Pittsburgh Army Recruiting and Induction District. Women will have to release men for combat duty at a rate much faster than the present one. This is a military necessity that the women of America must be made to realize.

The U. S. Army has given the women of the New Castle area a quota to fill which is about three times as great as that under which the station has been previously working. The quota as newly announced is 75 WAACs per month. Women of the district can show their patriotism by living up to this new quota. It is not in excess of what can be done according to the population, but it will require that all those who are free to enroll answer the call of their country.

The only restriction in addition to the regular qualifications is that the WAAC cannot accept women engaged in skilled war production work who are essential to industry.

Starting January 1, 1943, women of New Castle and surrounding area were accepted for the WAAC Recruiting Office in the New Castle

Over 80 Bomb Raids On Kiska So Far This Month

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—With U. S. army airmen attacking Kiska almost hourly between dawn and dusk, the military situation in the Aleutians today moved toward a climax that may determine soon whether the Japanese will be able to get their new airfield into operation.

So far this month more than 80 raids have been carried out by American flyers agianst Kirka, but the navy has given no indication that the Japs have abandoned their plans to complete landing strips on the island.

Assaults Increase

Since the intensified aerial offensive began March 1, the tempo of the assaults has increased gradually, with the record series for a single day being 13 attacks, or an average of one every hour of daylight. Several series of eight, nine and 10 raids in a day have been reported.

LONDON, April 20.—British Mosquito bombers and Beaufighters last night shot up Nazi transport targets all the way from Brittany to northwest Germany, the air ministry said today.

Whirlwind bombers at the same time attacked enemy shipping in the English Channel.

Several trains and trucks were smashed in the sorties against Nazi communication lines, the communique said.

Two British planes were lost in the operations.

Earlier railway communications in occupied Belgium were blasted by Mosquito bombers while planes of the fighter command attacked transport targets and a power station in northern France.

GOVERNOR PLANS NO INTERVENTION IN FILIBUSTER

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 20.—No gubernatorial intervention in the Republican-Democratic dispute in the General Assembly appeared likely today as the Democratic filibuster entered its fifth day.

Asked whether he would take action in an effort to terminate the filibuster, which began last week Monday, Governor Martin commented at his news conference late yesterday that "there is nothing for me to do".

He added, however, that "I never knew a filibuster to be of any great assistance to the fellows who started it—and I've been around for a long time."

URGE REMOVAL OF RATIONING POINTS ON LUNCHEON MEATS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 20.—Removal of rationing point values on low-priced luncheon meats and a further reduction in the point values of other type cold cuts were recommended today by the Pittsburgh Food Distribution committee. William M. Walsh, chairman of the committee, said the recommendations were based on a study of 100 retail food stores which indicated that many workers in heavy industry were not getting enough meat in their meals.

SAPVILLE, L. I., April 20.—With seven bodies already recovered, the Navy and Coast Guard continued their search today for the bodies of three additional Sea Scouts missing after their 36-foot cabin cruiser, The Legionnaire, foundered and capsized two miles off shore here yesterday.

The only known survivor was Fred Mayer, 30, of North Bellmore, L. I., skipper of the tiny craft. He was rescued by a passing merchantman, and is now in a critical condition in the Southside hospital at Bay Shore, suffering from exhaustion and immersion. The boys ranged in age from 15 to 18 years.

Bataan Veteran Here To Spur Sale Of Bonds

Sergt. E. H. Carleson Stirs Enthusiasm For War Bonds By Story Of War Action

Millions of words written and spoken have been used in the past month in the United States to induce citizens to buy war bonds. Newspapers, motion pictures and radios have combined to present reasons for the investment but all of them put together could not expect to be so effective as the appearance here today of Staff Sergeant Edwin H. Carleson of the 5th battalion Shenango Replacement Depot.

Sergeant Carleson has already been in three battle engagements as an American soldier, was wounded at Bataan, and wounded at Casablanca. Now he is preparing to go back into action again. Today he toured the Shenango Pottery at the request of the employes, urging the purchase of war bonds.

Has Charmed Life

Apparently Sergeant Carleson has a charmed life, for four times he has taken a full front view of death and come through. In 1936 Sergeant Carleson, a native of Seattle, Wash., was a student in the University of Washington and a promising violinist. In that year he enlisted in the United States Army and did a tour of duty in American camps.

Six weeks before Pearl Harbor he was sent to the Philippines and was stationed on the Bataan peninsula. His story about the Bataan fighting isn't a pretty one. "We ran out of food and drugs" he says simply. "If there had been a war bond drive before Battan we might have gotten supplies through and our boys would still be in there fighting. The last few days they were down to eating grass. They fought as

RESUME PARLEY ON MINE RIGHTS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 20.—Far from optimistic about breaking their prolonged stalemate in contract negotiations, northern bituminous coal operators resumed discussions today with union officials but southern owners delayed their session until this afternoon when Federal Conciliator Dr. John R. Steelman is expected back in New York.

Steelman was called from New York yesterday, presumably to Washington, to discuss the deadlocked controversy which has reached the critical stage and may bring a shutdown in coal production on May 1 if some solution isn't worked out. It was expected that upon returning he would offer another compromise proposal to break the impasse.

Neither the operators nor representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, headed by John L. Lewis, would comment.

The northern conference adjourned without comment after a session lasting slightly more than an hour but planned to meet again this afternoon.

The brief announcement of the president's broadcast was made by the White House and no details were given. Nazi Attacks Are Repulsed As Red Forces Make Slight Gains

REPORT GERMANS LOSE MANY MEN

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, April 20—The German army continued today to batter its head ineffectively against the stone-wall positions of Russian forces pressing ever closer to Novorossisk in the Soviet drive to dislodge the Germans from their precarious foothold on the gateway to the Caucasus.

A German infantry regiment, supported by tanks, attacked Russian guards during the night and made wedges in the Russian defenses. But the Red Army soldiers, in a decisive counter-attack, threw the Germans back again, in hand-to-hand fighting adding 100 more to the toll of 8,000 Hitlerites killed in the Kuban Valley in the last four days, the noon communique said.

200 Nazis Slain

The Russian high command previously reported 200 Nazis slain in the same theater when the Russians permitted the Germans to approach within close range, then opened fire with all types of weapons, exterminating two battalions of enemy infantry.

Seventeen German planes, part of the air force supporting the German infantry in the Kuban region, were downed yesterday, making a total of 42 shot out of the air since Friday in that area.

Today's noon communique reported 38 members of a German reconnaissance detachment killed by snipers on the central front, hundreds of Nazis killed in an unsuccessful

STABS WIFE, SON; LEAPS TO DEATH

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 20.—George Cooper, 42-year-old unemployed salesman, stabbed his wife and their two-year-old son critically today and then leaped to his death from the window of his second floor apartment in Manhattan.

Mrs. Cooper was awakened by blows from a potato masher wielded by her husband who after stabbing the 38-year-old woman slashed his young son.

A note found in the apartment indicated that Cooper, out of work for several months, had intended to kill his wife and child and then end his life.

"Darling—I've struggled against this for months," it read. "Nothing I will say will do any good now. At 4 a. m. Allen (the son) called my name in his sleep and I tried to snap out of it. There was no use. Goodbye, George."

The mother, with two stab wounds, and the baby with knife wounds in the back, are in a critical condition.

Princess Elizabeth Seventeen Tomorrow

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(I. N. S Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, April 20. — Princess Elizabeth, destined one day to be crowned Queen of England, celebrates her 17th birthday tomorrow.

And for the first time it can be disclosed she is not quite heart-whole and fancy free.

Romance has entered into the life of the fairy-tale princess who in the last year has blossomed into a young woman of terrific personality and engaging wit. Gay and amusing yet sound as a bell, she knows every sign of becoming as famous a queen as her distinguished Victorian and Elizabethan predecessors.

Young men have been invited to "duty" functions at the country residences of the King and Queen and have come away completely captivated by Princess Elizabeth.

Earlier this year, good-looking 24-year-old Grenadier Guard High Fitzroy, Earl of Euston and heir of the wealthy Duke of Grafton, was probably Princess Elizabeth's best "boy friend." There were many willing to wager he eventually would be her prince consort.

Seems Favored

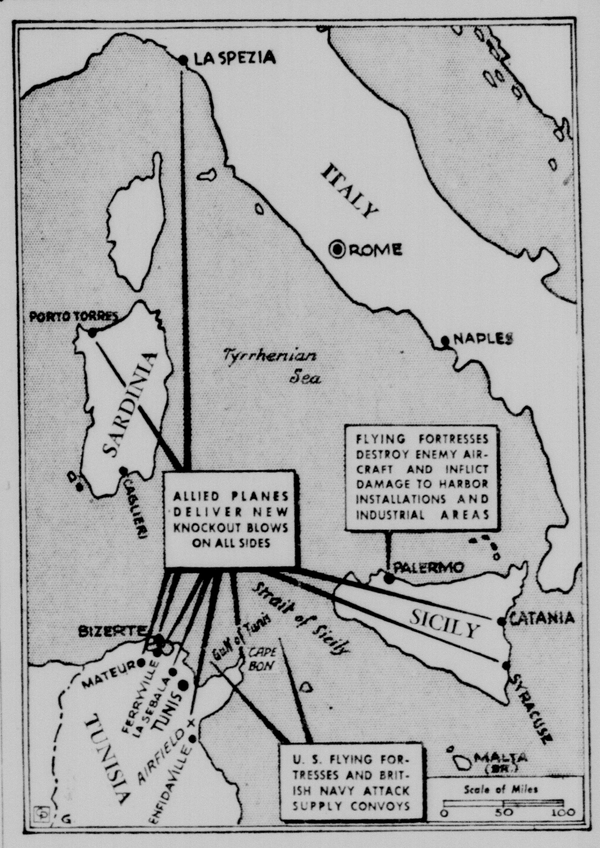

But today Lord David Burghersh (whose name is pronounced Burgesh), heir to the ancient earldom of Westmoreland and who is only 19, appears to be her current choice. He is blond, pink of complexion and also a guardsman.

Hitler Observes Birthday; Allies Foresee Peace Effort

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 20.—Adolf Hitler observed is 54th birthday today amid reports that the Reichschancellor is working on two plans by which he hopes to save his Nazi regime.

Whether Hitler would address the German people on the occasion remained problematical, although it had been reported last week that his rubber-stamp Reichstag had been summoned to receive a message today.

In the gloomy speeches yesterday by Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering and Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels no mention was made that Hitler would be heard today but it is possible that they avoided any announcement for security reasons.

The German radio said yesterday that Hitler would spend his birthday at his "headquarters," which might mean Berchtesgaden.

Allied and neutral diplomats, according to a Stockholm dispatch to the Daily Express, believe Hitler has drawn up a new peace offer, the first move in his two-fold scheme to rescue National Socialism. It was thought possible he might make a peace bid in a speech today or by next week end.

The second plan, it was said, involves a war of attrition which would be put into operation after failure of the peace move.

Fire Pumps Sent By Government Are Being Tested Today

Preliminary Test Of Pump At Central Fire Station Is Satisfactory

Under the direction of Fire Chief James E. Thomas, the fire pumps which were sent here for use in an emergency by the OCD fire fighting force, are being given a thorough test today.

The one pump, which is stationed at Central station, was tried out this morning and proved entirely satisfactory, throwing a strong stream of water, pumped out of Neshannock creek, across to the other side, in spite of the fact that a fairly strong breeze was blowing.

The other three pumps were to be brought to the Mercer street parking lot this afternoon, and all were to be tested together. In addition to the pumps, there are several sections of fire hose with each piece of apparatus.

Total Of Planes Shot Out Of Skies In Two Days 112

Landing Fields Of Axis In Tunisia Area Also Steadily Battered

BELIEVE TRANSPORTS CARRYING TROOPS

By CLINTON GREEN
(I. N. S Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, In North Africa, April 20.—The number of enemy planes shot down in this theater Sunday and Monday now stands at the staggering total of 112, including 70 Junker-25 transports, Allied headquarters disclosed today.

An official announcement revealed that 12 of the huge Junkers had been shot down Monday, instead of 10 as originally stated—in addition to Sunday's bag of 58. The successes against the big Axis troop carriers flying the vital supply route between Sicily and Tunisia were scored by American, South African and British fighter pilots.

Twenty-four Axis planes were shot down by the northwest African air forces yesterday, including 21 over the Gulf of Tunis. Of these, 12 were Junkers-52's. In actions elsewhere in this raging aerial theater, 39 other enemy planes have been brought to earth, boosting the two-day total bag to 112.

Landing Fields Battered

Even as the Axis planes were being shot out of the skies in increasing numbers, their dwindling landing fields were battered by Allied fliers. Fast Mitchell bombers, accompanied by A-20-A attack bombers and escorted by Spitfire and Lightning formations pounded the La Sebala airdrome.

Night-flying Bisleys of the RAF hit the La Marsa landing ground 24 hours after French bombers had started huge conflagrations at that field. The French planes also blasted Protville, north of Tunis.

Flying fortresses, striking through a hole in the clouds over enemy-held Tunis, scored at least four hits on railroad installations in that city and demolished a large section of its industrial center, which extends parallel to a large dock.

RIVERS RISING AT PITTSBURGH

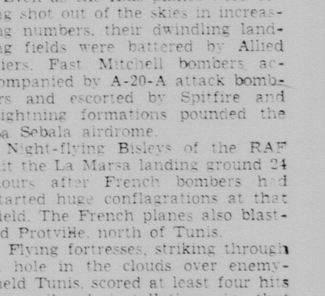

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 20.—With rain continuing to fall lightly over the Allegheny and Monongahela watersheds for the third consecutive day, the rivers at the Point are rising steadily but are expected to crest short of the 25-foot flood level late today.

W. S. Brotzman, in charge of the local weather bureau, predicted the crest at the confluence of the two rivers would be between 21 to 23 feet, based on the expectation of continued rains today.

Yesterday evening the stage was 16.87 feet but the gates of the Emsworth Dam were opened and there was a slight drop in the next few hours.

The war goes on, the spring rains come, and April flirts with May, but baseball comes in turn each year and now most any day, you'll hear the roar of angry crowds and shouts of "kill the ump," and rookies who looked good in camp will start to take their bumps. The vets are still the starting team, though slower here and there, and now and then a rook makes good, and bobs up here and there. But soon the crowds will yell for blood, the angry fans will roar, and baseball starts another year, the weather's fifty-four.

Defer Fathers Urges Wheeler

Senator Would Defer Draft Of Fathers Until After January 1, 1944

By HORACE M. COATS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aril 20—Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D) Mont., today proposed draft deferment for fathers until Jan. 1, 1944, as the senate military affairs committee announced that hearings will be conducted on the issue.

Wheeler decided to revise his measure for indefinite deferment in the hope of winning speedy approval from the military affairs committee and attaching his proposal to the house-approved Kilday bill as a "rider".

The decision of the military affairs committee to hold hearings on the Kilday bill, designed to prevent drafting of fathers until all eligible single men are inducted, presaged a showdown on the controversial proposal in the near future.

Wheeler also announced that he will press for a complete physical examination of all persons subject to the draft, and said that many high officials have approved the proposal.

"We now have about 6,500,000 men in the army, and 100,000 reach the age of 18 each year," said Wheeler. "About 73 per cent of the latter group will be drafted.

"The most optimistic reports of the number which can be shipped overseas and supplied this year is 2,700,000. That means that the balance of 4,000,000 will be in camps in this country and they cannot possibly be used in battle.

"I do not ask that married men be deferred for themselves, but for their families, in order to prevent breaking up of homes."

Princess Elizabeth numbers among her friends numerous young guardees and young American Army and Air Force officers who frequently are invited to charming country home functions like Sunday afternoon teas, amateur theatricals, movie shows and occasional dances.

Invariably, these officers appear surprised to discover that Elizabeth is in no way frumpish, but a typical modern girl, with a wide outlook, an excellent conversationalist, a good dancer, a fair singing voice—in other words, a young lady who is obviously enjoying life to the full.

Post Office Building. The mental test is given and all paper work is also done at this office. The applicant is notifeid as to whether or not she has so far passed.

If satisfactory, transporttaion to Pittsburgh for the purpose of taking a physical examination and the oath of enrollment is paid by the U. S. Army. This also includes the trip back from Pittsburgh. Before January 1 women interested in applying had to report to Pittsburgh for all steps.

The personnel of the New Castle Recruiting Office includes Sgt. John T. Bilpuch who is soon to leave for Officer's Training, PFC Kenneth Cloukey who was assigned to this office on April 1, 1943, and Lt. Laura A. Tiffany, WAAC, who has been here on temporary duty for the last two weeks. Other WAAC Officers make frequent visits to this station. The office is open every day except Sunday, hours from 7:45 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.

The women's clubs of New Castle are also assisting in securing women for the WAAC. Mrs. Harry Gormley, who was appointed chairman of this group at one of the first meetings held at the Castleton Hotel, is getting fine results.

Since January 11, 1943, fifty young women have joined the WAAC from the New Castle area. Approximately half this number are from New Castle alone, the other half from the rest of the area which includes Lawrence, part of Mercer and part of Beaver counties.

"What is the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps," you may ask. It is a corps of women in military uniform and under military discipline organized for non-combatant service with the Army. Its purpose is to release soldiers for combat duty. It is the only woman's organization, exclusive of the Army Nurse Corps, authorized to serve with the Army. Auxiliaries are the equivalent of the enlisted men in the Army. All members receive the same pay as soldiers.

Qualifications For Joining

The qualifications for joining are simple. You must be between the ages of 21 and 44 and a citizen of the United States. You must be physically fit, must pass a mental test, and must have at least two years of high school or the equivalent.

All officers of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps are being taken from the ranks under a policy established by the war department several months ago. Now that the corps is being expanded to six times its current strength thousands of new officers, both commissioned and non-commissioned, will be needed. Thus all women who enroll have an opportuntiy not only to advance through the enlisted ranks, but via Officers Candidate School to the rank of second lieutenant, and thence upwards. It is possible for a member to advance from auxiliary to lieutenant in only twelve weeks at the present rate of advancement.

So enlist now! Your country needs you now more than ever before. We hope that the women of this district will become aware of this need. The month of April is our first under the new quota and about 50 more women are needed immediately. This area has a reputation for "over-the-top" subscription and support of patriotic enterprises. Nothing is more closely allied with the war effort than getting men on the battle lines. Let us prove that our women, too, are behind our country. Seventy-five women per month from our area for the WAAC is one way to prove it.

long as human endurance could stand up under that pounding of the Japs and the shortage of food. There was no disgrace in that surrender. His brother, an infantry lieutenant was killed on Bataan and a sister, an army nurse is now a prisoner there.

Wounded and Evacuated

Three days before Bataan fell Sergeant Carleson was wounded and evacuated to Australia in a PT boat, those hornets of the sea. Somehow the PT escaped Jap naval vessels and subs and got through to Australia. Recovering from wounds in Australia he was sent to the Johnson Islands just in time to help beat off the Japs in a strafing attack. Later he was sent to Scofield Barracks, Honolulu, and still later to the United States.

Back in the States he trained in the Amphibian forces and was sent across the Atlantic with the troops headed for North Africa. Early one November morning he found himself on the beach at Fedala, 16 miles from Casablanca as a reconnaissance observer for the Field Artillery. He was with the advance guard that took the strategic airport outside Fedala but a little later was riddled with shrapnel. That ended the African fighting for the time.

Hospital Ship Torpedoed

He was loaded onto a hospital ship and headed for the United States again but some miles out from the African coast the hospital ship on which he was a patient was torpedoed. By clever seamanship the officers got the ship back to an African port and he was again loaded onto a hospital ship and this time got back to the United States. He was in Walter Reed hospital long enough to recuperate from his wounds and was then sent back into active service.

Sergeant Carleson makes no pretense of being an orator. The story he tells needs no oratorical embellishments. He is the living proof of why war bonds must be purchased. Today he went through the various department of the pottery telling his story of what active service means. After hearing the story, Charles Read, sales manager of the pottery purchased a $1,000 bond, which gives you some idea of what effect Sergeant Carleson's story had. Sergeant Carleson is accompanied by Sergeant Sam J. Ziskind of the Public Relations Bureau of Camp Shenango.

At Lions Club

At noon Sergeant Carleson was the guest of the Lion's Club and this afternoon went back to the pottery to talk to the shift that comes on in the afternoon. After listening o him for a few minutes one wonders why anybody can refuse to buy bonds. All he pleads for is money to buy guns, and more guns, and ammunition and food. "Give the boys the materials they need and there isn't any question how the war will end," he said. Upon his breast there are several ribbons and stars. He has been awarded the Purple Heart which is for gallantry and wounds. He wears the stars of three engagements and the bar for service before Pearl Harbor. His story is effective as much for what he does not say as for what he does, for the necessities of war prohibit his revealing too much.

A week ago he was married to Miss Laura Flowers of Sharpsburg.

In the meantime the report from Lawrence County in the war bond drive is nothing to excite cheers. Nationwide the drive is about 80 per cent over. Locally it is about 60 per cent. Ellwood City is up in the front ranks of the drive, so is the fourth ward of New Castle and the second. Other districts are reported as badly lagging.

Sergeant Carleson doesn't understand the apathy at buying bonds. Of course he isn't familiar with the situation in the United States. He has been too busy getting himself shot up in the various theatres of war.

PRESIDENT ON SECOND TOUR OF INSPECTION

Stops At Warm Springs

The chief executive spent one day at the Warm Springs, Ga., infantile paralysis foundation where he explained that he was making the trip in order to "keep in touch with this very great war effort that the whole nation everywhere is fighting"

Comparing what he has seen with his previous inspection trip last September, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters that what has impressed him most, was that soldiers are now being turned out in better physical condition than they were six months ago. Of course, he pointed out, more seasoned troops have been reviewed this time, and last fall was a relatively early part of the training program.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed the conviction that people throughout the United States are away ahead of Washington, that they have a much better sense of proportion and a better sense of perspective than they do in the nation's capital.

Enjoying Trip

That he personally was enjoying this trip was apparent from his remark that since leaving Washington he had not seen or heard of a single bloc. And, so his allusion to Washington's many pressure groups both in and out of congress would be clear, Mr. Roosevelt spelled out the word—b-l-o-c.

A trip of this sort, he said, served to get his mind away from things that are out of proportion.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed great pleasure in the knowledge that military training afforded tremendous improvement in the health and mental alertness of those in the armed services.

A year of training certainly does no one any harm, he asserted.

The president also called attention to the fact that high ranking officers of the army, navy and marines were much younger in years in this war than they were in 1918. The morale of these officers, he said, was very high, and they all displayed a great eagerness to get the job over quickly.

Leaving Washington April 13, President Roosevelt's first stop was at Parris Island, S. C., where he reviewed marine "boot camp" troops undergoing basic training. Riding in the president's open car were Gov. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina and Maj. Gen. Emile Moses, commander of the post.

On Thursday, the chief executive saw three infantry groups at Fort Benning, Ga., carry out a tactical war problem under a hail of live shells from machine guns and 81 mm. mortars. He also reviewed the 10th armored division and basic paratroop training school, and saw pre-flight cadets of the air corps at work at Maxwell Field, Ala. With the president at Fort Benning was Georgia's governor, Ellis Arnall, while Gov. Chauncey Sparks of Alabama rode in his car during the inspection at Maxwell Field.

Thursday evening the president arrived at Warm Springs, Ga., where he told a group of infantile paralysis convalescents that "things have gotten a lot better" since the sneak Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor 18 months ago.

On Saturday, after resting for a day at Warm Springs, Mr. Roosevelt reviewed 4,000 WAACs at Fort Oglethorpe, Tenn., and the 80th infantry division at Camp Forrest, Tenn.

On Sunday, Mr. Roosevelt inspected Camp Joseph T. Robinson, near Little Rock, and attended Palm Sunday religious services in the camp gymnasium in company with 3,500 officers and enlisted men.

Japan's expanding front-line airfields has been displayed by American flyers from Guadalcanal who have been blasting enemy bases and shipping in the central and northern Solomons day and night.

No Hint By Japs

So far the Japanese have given no hint on whether these forward bases are being expanded and reinforced for offensive or defensive purposes.

Although the Japs have shown evidence that an aerial offensive is budding in the New Guinea area, there has been little aggressive enemy activity on sea or in the air in either the north of south Pacific battle zones.

The Japanese, however, have shown no inclination to abandon or even loosen their holds on bases in the central and northern Solomons and western Aleutians.

In fact recent U. S. bombing attacks against Jap shipping in the northern Solomons indicated that the Japs were sending in reinforcements and supplies.

No Change In Line

Despite sharp fighting in several areas along the 1,800-mile Russian front, no important changes in battle lines were recorded.

On the central front, 150 Germans were killed in one exchange of artillery fire. Russian planes raiding a large railway station at the enemy's rear destroyed 13 military trains and a number of supply dumps.

In the Leningrad area, raiding Russian guerillas killed 200 Germans, blew up two bridges and derailed a train.

West of Rostov-on-Don, 25 ambushed Germans were slain and three enemy officers and two soldiers taken prisoner.

FAITH
A CRITICAL SITUATION

Unless the W.P.B. gives the casket manufacturers of the country lumber and other materials, used in the manufacturers of caskets, there will be a serious situation in different communities.

It is nearly impossible now, to get caskets from the manufacturer. Many have closed on account of not being able to get a little lumber, and others on account of help. The available caskets being used now, are nearly all ones that the funeral directors and jobbers had in stock.

An order going into effect May 1, prohibits any manufacturer from manfacturing only caskets of certain size. This size is so ridiculously small that 60% of the American people would not go in them.

This is another ruling made by men with no experience, connected with our Government, and the public should make a protest.

As more men rush to the battle line, victory and peace will be achieved sooner . . . precious American lives will be saved . . . homes will be spared . . . families will be reunited. Wouldn't you like a part in that program?

The women of the WAAC have a deep and satisfying knowledge that they are making a real contribution to victory—that each is doing the work of a soldier so that he may get his chance to man a tank, a gun, a plane.

IT'S APRIL 20TH. Let's give him a rousing party—with gunpowder made from the used cooking fats American women have saved. And let's keep on saving them for more gunpowder to come! Rationing needn't stop you because only used fats are wanted, after you've got the cooking good from them. But when that cooking good is gone, remember—every drop is desperately wanted. Record News by Elisabeth Fleming

For a kid who preferred painting to music and rebelled against piano practice, Duke Ellington has gone far. At the completion of his 20th year, he, because of his reputation as the greatest contempory exponent of jazz, gave a concert in New York's Carnegie Hall. The release of the album, "Panorama" is a tribute to his success. Eight tunes, including "Mood Indigo," "Dusk," "Warm Valley" were selected from 600 compositions. By all means, listen to these jazz raves. His latest hit is "Don't Get Around Much Any More."

AMAZING STRENGTH OF NATION

NOW in progress is the second big push on the home front—the drive for $13,000,000,000 to carry on the war. This is an immense amount of money, but there is a lot of money in the country and more being earned right now than ever before. And the purpose is the greatest ever—to preserve the kind of world that Americans want for themselves and their children.

"Who giveth to the poor lendeth unto the Lord," says the scripture. Who subscribeth to the war fund lendeth unto himself. All that a subscriber can take credit for in this case is that, along with a reasonable amount of patriotism, he is being shrewd and thrifty. He isn't giving anything away; he is helping to finance the war by the pleasant process of investing his money in the best security in the world. Men and women now earning will live on those bonds later on.

This is not the last call. There will be other appeals, and then others. But no lending and no spending is going to bankrupt the United States. As Wendell Willkie once said, "It is inconceivable how strong this nation is." And cheerful subscribing for the war bonds when soliciting neighbors come to the door is one of the ways in which the strength is expressed.

BACK TO FARM HURDLE

John Doe, born and reared on a farm but who moved to town with his family to do war work, may want to get back on a farm to help produce food that is so badly needed. Through argument, tingling with patriotic ardor, he convinces his family that it is the thing to do.

Then he takes inventory. When he moved to town he held a public sale, disposing of farm machinery and livestock. What will it cost to get started on the farm again? He must have a tractor and at least one team of horses with harness. Then there are a wagon, a gang plow, lister, cultivator, disc, drill, harrow, mower, rake and other minor farm tools. He ought to have three or four good milk cows, some hogs, chickens, and a few calves, perhaps some ewes.

With pencil and paper he sits down, starting with ewes and calves. Six calves will cost him $150, if not more. Good ewes will run into money. Before he gets far down the list he runs into a sum that staggers him and makes him look toward his better half, regretfully. Perhaps he should not have persuaded her that they ought to move back on the farm.

Then he runs into farm machinery and blows up. Inquiry has revealed that he would be lucky getting enough machinery to start anew if he spent a month combing the country for it. How many John Does there are in the cities will never be known. It is apparent, though, that unless a way is found to give them a new start they will stay in town.

VIEWED FROM DISTANCE

Mayors and burgesses of 56 cities and towns in Western Pennsylvania have unanimously passed a resolution asking that Washington make a prompt review of the gasoline situation in that part of the state. If such an investigation proves what officials say it will—plenty of available gasoline—they ask that those places be given the more favored status enjoyed by motor car drivers in Ohio and West Virginia.

The federal government at one time answered such demands for more favorable consideration where gasoline was plentiful with the stereotyped reply that it was "administratively impossible to cross state lines in establishing rationing districts." But now this myth has been dispelled by the action of the government itself in placing several cities and towns in Western Pennsylvania, notably Sharon, Farrell and Sharpsville, into Ohio District No. 2, thereby allowing motorists more gasoline.

The charge is made that gasoline is going to waste in certain sections of Western Pennsylvania, even after a large amount is shipped across state lines for motorists in Ohio and West Virginia. It would seem, therefore, that motorists in that section of the state have a justifiable complaint in that arbitrary government rulings have preference over common sense regulations on gasoline supplies as such exist there. There can't very well be a shortage where there is plenty of gasoline.—Williamsport Grit.

RESTORING AXIS LOOT

For what it is worth the conquered lands will take hope from the declaration in the House of Lords by Viscount Simon, lord chancellor, that the United Nations are determined, so far as possible, to recover and restore the loot by the Axis forces. The purpose is as worthy as specific performance will be difficult.

Much of the peculation consists of consumer goods, long since vanished. Some of it, like the machinery of dismantled factories, is so widely scattered that reassembly might cost as much in time and money as replacement new. Much transportation will have been worn out or destroyed by the end of the war, and some of it, like standard steel rails torn up to build new German supply lines, might be incapable of identification by its owners.

The case stands differently when it becomes a question of art objects, money, securities, scientific instruments and the like. Not all of these, of course, have been "stolen" in the accepted sense of the word. Many factory owners in France and elsewhere have been rather subtly "promoted" by Hitler's agents out of anything resembling control, and some of their stock may actually be found in the hands of innocent holders at reduced values.

The business of unscrambling these relationships will be no easy one. The alternative of restoration through making the Axis indemnify the owners is one that no man may today predict with confidence. That will be one of the major problems of the peace table.

But because there is an impression that Hitler and his close associates contemplate smuggling, if they have not already done so, some of the fruits of their brigandage to neutral lands, these countries are all put on friendly notice not to let themselves be made custodians of stolen goods. It is gratifying to learn from Lord Simon that those Latin-American states which have broken diplomatic relations with the Axis, but have not as yet declared war, are responsing favorably to the suggestion to be on the lookout.

The small air bomb does heavy damage, too. In fact, it's a real chip off the block-buster.

The Germans, we read, have taken over the Italian navy. The Nazis, it appears, want to have the fun of scuttling it.

"One of the great mistakes of Hitler," says a commentator, "has been to underestimate the opposition." Including God.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SPIRITUAL HELP TO THOSE GOING TO WAR

At this period of the year, many children over 10 or 12 are taking public vows in the various churches of the nation to observe certain religious principles or ideals. Anyone who has witnessed such scenes must have been greatly impressed, no matter what his own personal beliefs might be. In these times when some of the youths uniting with a church are soon to enter the armed forces, we are more impressed than usual by the expression of faith and earnestness of these young idealists.

We parents of the youth making such a public expression of obligation owe this youth a great deal, in case we really care about his moral and spiritual welfare. We owe him encouragement. He needs our help in the hours, days and weeks with us in the family, in order that he may be able to fulfill his vows, in his daily relations in the family and outside the family; fulfill his vows, moreover, in respect to faithful attendance at public worship and observances of other ceremonies in accordance with his promises.

Set Lifetime Habit

This is the most strategic period of his spiritual life. If he can move forward with adequate emotional momentum to practice fervently the faith he has espoused, this week, next week, next year, he will have gone far toward making it a permanent practice for a lifetime.

But if, as sometimes happens, he soon lets his spiritual ardor cool and grows indifferent; if, during the next several weeks or months, he does not practice the obligations he vowed to observe, he may not only die slowly in a moral and spiritual way, but he may also feel ashamed of himself for having failed, or even for having taken the vows at all.

He might come indeed almost to despise the very idea he had pledged to strive toward. Besides, he might lose faith in himself and his ability to hold himself to any high plane of self-sacrifice or struggle to climb upward. During Lent we have seen such victories or defeats in adults as well as in children.

Helping Youth Spiritually

Of course, we must be patient and sympathetic, if we would help this youth most. We are tempted as we see him doing something noticeably contrary to the vows he recently took, or neglecting to do what he had publicly promised to do, to remind him rebukingly of his failure to try to make him ashamed of this failure. We rarely help him in this way. On the contrary, we usually hinder him and cause him only to grow disgusted with himself.

We do most to help him by setting the stage so he may succeed in fulfilling his vows and by celebrating his victories with him.

This principle applies in many other situations, such as after the boy or girl has joined the Scouts, or if he or an adult member of the family has announced a resolve to break some harmful habit or carry through some worthy purpose.

Spiritual Growth

A child or adult grows morally and spiritually when he proves he is carrying through any worthy plan or purpose he has made known to others. He loses morally and spiritually when he fails to live up to such declared objectives.

For his moral as well as spiritual health, for his self-regard and mental health, indeed, we parents shall do our best to help the child who has just taken a religious vow, to fulfill this vow, regardless of our own personal beliefs. We can help him most if we also prove faithful to the resolves we ourselves may have taken years ago; if we demonstrate, moreover, that our religion or philosophy of life makes us more lovely to live with.

SELECT GOOD FURNITURE

"We have been married for one year and have been living in a furnished apartment. Now that we have a small nest egg, we expect to move into our little house. Of course, there is the expense of buying furniture to be considered. My wife and I argue constantly. She thinks we should immediately furnish the house complete, down to the slightest gadget. I think we should furnish the downstairs and one bedroom in durable attractive pieces rather than the entire house in inferior pieces. I am extremely fond of Duncan Phyfe — reproductions, of course. Originals are out of my financial class. Do you think this idea gradually accumulating good things is a good one?" Bill.

Answer: I do, indeed, Bill, think this is a good idea. Duncan Phyfe furnishings are in excellent taste. The classic designs of this cabinet maker have prevailed for centuries and will probably be in the best of taste for centuries more. "Stick to your guns" and gradually accumulate good and lasting pieces that will be a pleasure to look at and, in the long run, more economical.

This is certainly preferable to the usual habit of choosing fads that will soon grow tiresome because seen in the homes of many friends and neighbors. Don't fill your home with huge pieces of inferior pieces in your hurry to fill up bare spaces.

Hitler's Sociability Is Open To Doubt
Mussolini, However, Used To Be Different
Representative Sol Bloom Knew Him Well

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Can Fuhrer Hitler be sociable when he feels like it? At a mere glance he doesn't give that impression. Nevertheless, broadcasts from Berlin and Rome assert that he and Duce Mussolini had a very harmonious chat a few days ago relative to their two countries' joint resistance to the Allies' expected invasion of continental Europe as soon as the season is far enough advanced to make it practicable.

To be sure, Axis accounts naturally would represent it as having been harmonious.

Anyway, a continental landing of the democracies' forces on the European mainland undoubtedly would begin with Italy, preliminary to a thrust into Germany. Recognition of it would be apt to make Benito more immediately skeery than Adolf.

Earlier stories were to the effect that the Duce had politely asked the Fuehrer for a pledge of the Reich's assistance in the event of an Italian emergency. And Adolf was said to have refused with Teutonic gruffness.

Now the Axis version is that everything was lovely at the pair's recent confab.

Such yarns are bound to conflict. To determine which is which, at present, is impossible.

Something is known, however, concerning Benito's pre-war personality. He was a prominent newspaper editor in Milan and had lots of acquaintances, who spoke well of his companionability. He eased into totalitarianism considerably earlier than Adolf, and somewhat gradually.

In fact, I don't believe that, at first, he intended to be totalitarian. Italy had graduated from the first World war period into desperate economic straits. As a leading newspaperman, he undertook to give helpful advice. How sound it was probably is doubtful, but it was well meant, maybe. Italians thought pretty favorably of him at that stage in the proceedings. There even were Allied commentators, of the first World war's alignment, who mentioned him as a rather promising reorganizer.

He is civilized, too. He can visit pleasantly with visitors.

One of them, whom I know, is Chairman Sol Bloom of the representatives' committee on foreign affairs. Sol met him when he still was on his editorial desk in Milan. They contacted initially in early War No. 1's Armistice days, when

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
(International News Staff Writer)

Starting with practically nothing but some old mail men and a few home economics experts in the department of agriculture, we have built a government army of three million civilian workers—to use the word loosely.

This is the greatest civic accomplishment since construction of the Tower of Babel and historians will note that it was accomplished without the aid of a labor draft.

If all the government employees were formed into a pyramid, one man on the next's man shoulders, it would undoubtedly topple over and squash the taxpayer not to mention his wallet.

But it would make news that would go 'round the world. And the OWI would doubtless hire 300 more men to carry it around.

What stands out is the self-sacrifice of these government people. Hundreds of young lawyers, fresh out of school, have turned their backs on a promising career of starvation to accept the government's modest $5,200 or maybe $10,000.

They don't care what the salary is as long as it is more than they expected.

Thought for the day: Five million employees by Christmas.

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

When the final story of this war is written, I hope the historian will not forget to record one of the principal weapons that helped to lick the Nazis and the Japs.

I was talking to Karl Ullstein, member of the family which owned the largest publishing house in Europe before the war and hopes to own it again.

I asked him what impressed him most about America.

Without a moment's hesitation he said:

"Your wonderful sense of humor. Your ability to laugh in the face of danger.

"Your great facility of seeing the funny side of everything, to make a joke out of things over which we weep."

And so I thought of Karl Ullstein this morning when I read the story about the steel darts which the Germans are now showering on the Yanks in Tunisia out of their night-raiding bombers.

The soldiers call them "devil's needles", and they are ugly weapons, indeed.

These steel darts have tail fins, so that they drop points first. They can easily penetrate a piece of wood two inches thick—and they can easily kill a man.

Were our soldiers scared when the rain of darts came down on them? They were not.

"As soon as we found them" told Master Sergeant K. F. Tramontano of Long Island with a grin, "we cut down trees and put thick branches over our fox holes. Then we pulled out the darts wherever they hit and started a dart game with them. We sure had a lot of fun."

That's the spirit Ullstein was talking about.

What's our soldiers' favorite literature? The comics. What do they like to hear? Funny stories with hearty laughs.

They poke fun at the enemy, they poke fun at their officers, they poke fun at each other.

Oh yes, there is one other thing Ullstein mentioned:

"Your voluntary discipline amazes me. Your men obey because they want to, because there's a job to do and they know that that's the way to do it."

Don't forget to mention these two great weapons of war, Mr. Historian—sense of humor and voluntary discipline.

The essence of freedom is in these two.

The World and the Mud Puddles

LEAVE IT TO THE BOYS.

Every once in a while there appears on the American scene a man with the courage to go against the tide of public opinion and explode a popular fallacy. Such a man now appears in the person of W. G. Amstein, horticulture specialist at the Kansas State College at Manhattan, who urges victory gardeners not to clutter up their plots with spinach. "It's about like a weed," he says.

Just what weed, he didn't say. But any of them will do. Nor did he go on to relate that a strange coincidence probably gave spinach its place in the sun and put it upon millions of dinner tables. The blue plate special, the inventor of which doubtless was casting around for some inedible companion to the other gastronomic parodies he had devised, came into being about the time a comic strip character by the name of Popeye began to burlesque the American diet by including spinach in his daily fare. The inventor of the blue plate evidently did not catch the joke and, upon cooking up a tangle of this outcast of the vegetable kingdom, he found that it fulfilled his requirements. Whereupon by employing a press agent and persuading some professor to substantiate Popeye's claims, this unnamed disgrace to the American kitchen soon had millions of us chewing shapeless masses of sand and leaves under the delusion that we were developing brain and brawn with a newly discovered carrier of vitamins and iron.

Happily, the discoverer of spinach had the good sense to remain anonymous.

GOVERNOR MARTIN ASSERTS W. A. A. C. CAN SPEED PEACE

Endorses Recruiting Of American Women To Take Real Part In Winning War

HARRISBURG, April 20.—"The efficient operation of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps may well mark the difference between a speedy conclusion to the hostilities and a long drawn out struggle." Governor Edward L. Martin asserted here today in a statement from his office and urged the people of the commonwealth to co-operate and support the important mission of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps.

Governor Martin handed his statement to Major-General Milton A. Reckord, commanding general of the Third Service Command, who was in Harrisburg for the meeting of the Adjutant General and National Guard Associations of the United States. General Reckord, speaking for his command, praised the work of the WAAC and promised that WAAC's will replace every general service man who can be released for combat service.

The complete text of Governor Martin's statement follows:

"The people of these United States of America are now engaged in a great war in defense of the principles of liberty and democracy upon which our illustrious nation is founded and the vast scope of this war requires the utmost efforts of every man and woman citizen to prosecute successfullly the campaign against our totalitarian enemies.

"It is desirable to direct the attention of all our people to the outstanding contributions being made to this total war by the courageous women of our country, and many of our most distinguished women citizens have patriotically offered their services to our government by joining the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps.

"This same Women's Army Auxiliary Corps was dully established by Act of Congress in the month of May, 1942, and dully authorized by the President of the United States, in December, 1942, to expand to 150,000 members. The efficient operation of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps may well mark the difference between a speedy conclusion to the hostilities and a long drawn-out struggle.

"I invite the co-operation and support of all citizens in forwarding the important mission of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps by lending their efforts to stimulate the recruiting of American women for this corps, which is doing so much to further the cause of freedom and justice."

New Castle Fire Losses Are Low

Record In City For Year Is Lower Than Most Cities Of Same Size

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, April 20.—New Castle had a better fire record for 1942 than did most cities in the country larger than 25,000 population, according to a study of fire losses in 396 cities, completed this week by the National Fire Protection Association.

There were 181 building fires in New Castle in the year, resulting in a loss of $38,727. On a per capita basis, this amounts to 81 cents per person, comparing favorably with the average loss of $1.81 per person for all the cities.

The local fire department answered 408 alarms in 1942 and fought 181 building fires. Per building fire, the loss in the city was $214, compared with the national average of $445 per building.

The association notes that although there was an 11.3 percent increase in 1942 in the number of building fires in the country, the average loss per person felt almost 19 percent, due principally to more effective and efficient fire fighting methods.

Foresees Chaos For Commercial Aviation

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 20.—Hundreds of thousands of discarded planes and returning aviators will bring post-war chaos to commercial aviation unless strict regulations are imposed, C. Bedell Monro, president of the Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, warned on Monday.

"After the war thousands of airplanes will be lying around just waiting to be bought for a few thousand dollars each. The war-trained aviators will want to continue flying," he declared.

As a result, a vast number of small airlines will spring up causing "ruinous competition," Monro predicted, unless limitations and regulations are applied to the industry.

FOR THE PUBLIC—

Laboratory findings may be summed up—for the public—in this statement:

On comparison, the four other leading cigarettes averaged more than three times as irritant—with irritant effects lasting more than five times as long—as the strikingly contrasted Philip Morris.

The series of separate and independent clinical findings may be summarized thus:

When smokers changed to Philip Morris, every case of irritation of nose or throat, due to smoking, either cleared up completely, or definitely improved.

It is upon this basis of scientifically proved superiority for the nose and throat that we advise smokers to...

Hit, Pilot Thinks When Hot Pipe Burns Stomach

(International News Service)

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA.—They tell this story about an American P39 pilot. He was lolling in the scanty shade of the thatched roof of the operations "office" somewhere in New Guinea, smoking a pipe and reading a three months old magazine, when there was an emergency alert.

He raced to his Airacobra, in a few minutes was in the air, and seconds later was in a dogfight with three Zeros.

The battle was a hot one. The American sent one Zero spinning to the ground, but bullets were ripping through his plane. One creased his helmet, and a second later he felt a sharp, burning stab in the stomach.

He stiffened; he had always dreaded the thought of a bullet in the abdomen. Somehow he beat off the Zeros. Not daring to look down, he got his ship back to his field and made an unsteady landing.

The ambulance raced across. Gently they angled him out. Pale, badly scared, but determined not to show it, he asked for a cigarette to be put between his lips.

At the dressing station a surgeon ripped away the pilot's clothing—and out fell the burning pipe.

The pilot had to go to a hospital, but instead of having a Japanese bullet removed, he was treated for several very large and very painful blisters.

Bank Buys 'The Ritz' Famous N. Y. Hotel

(International News Service)

NEW YORK — The hotel that added a word to the English language, so strong a symbol did it become of a way of living—the Ritz-Carlton—was bought recently by the City Bank Farmers Trust Company, acting as trustee for the William Waldorf Astor estate.

The elaborately-appointed sixteen-story building opened in 1910 and assessed 32 years later at $3,675,000 built up such a reputation for lavishness that "ritz" and "ritzy" became part of the American vocabulary. It catered exclusively to the upper crust, and these words became synonymous with everything that was top-strata and super-super.

It was named, as earlier hotels in the Ritz-Carlton chain were, after the late Caesar Ritz, founder of the system.

The hotel was bought from Harvard University, to whom the property was left in 1941 by the late Robert W. Goelet, large real estate holder.

Age Of Plenty For All Human Race Nearing

Outstanding Chemist Shows Science Can Supply All Needs, If Wisely Used

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 20.—Dean Frank C. Whitmore of the school of chemistry and physics at the Pennsylvania State college, past president of the American Chemical society, made some predictions today that may make a ration-conscious public sit up and take notice.

He said, first, without denying the present need for rationing, that chemistry and its attendant sciences and applications, including all the branches of engineering, have made possible an age of plenty on a scale by which the entire human race can benefit, "if we only have the wisdom to use our knowledge."

Can Now Overproduce Needs

He said, next, that we now have the knowledge to produce more food than the human race can consume even if each member ate several times as much as would be good for him.

Furthermore, he added, mankind is now so situated that he could overproduce all of his requirements of clothing and shelter and any other needs he might face, and thereby make possible the elimination of war waged for economic reasons.

"We must remember that chemistry and its accompanying sciences and applications are in their veriest infancy," the dean continued. "As we gain greater knowledge, we shall find further applications for the thousands of cubic miles of raw materials which we have just begun to use. Our international attitudes must be remade in the light of the future which the creative science of chemistry opens up for us.

Have-Nots Behind Times

"Most of the rulers of the human race are like Hitler in that they are still thinking of the old days of scarcity before 1900 when the only way you could get something you needed was to take it away from the other fellow."

The attitude of the have-not nations must accordingly be conditioned by the fact that they will be able to remake from the raw materials which they do possess the articles that otherwise might lead them to aggression for economic reasons.

From such diverse raw materials as soft coal, wheat, petroleum, corn, natural gas, and molasses, we shall soon be making synthetic rubber, a commodity heretofore available only from the sap of one type of tropical tree, the dean pointed out.

"This is but one illustration of the possible conversions chemistry makes available. Through other processes we shall be able to convert unwanted raw materials into food, shelter, and clothing on a scale which will insure plenty for all the inhabitants of the earth."

Officers Of Women's Corps Entitled To Military Courtesies

Women Who Have Earned Army Commissions Given Salute By Enlisted Personnel

Many times a WAAC officer is asked, "Do soldiers have to salute you?" The answer is yes, from all branches of the military service.

WAAC officers are entitled to the same military courtesies as officers in the men's army. A recent change in a war department circular states:

"Those persons entitled to the salute are commissioned officers of the army, navy, marine corps, coast guard, army nurse corps, women's army auxiliary corps, warrant officers and flight officers and commissioned officers of allied nations in time of war. It is also customary to salute officers of friendly foreign nations when recognized as such.

The military salute is difficult for civilians to fully understand. Many falsely construe it as a sign of obedience, of paying tribute to a superior with little more behind it. This would place our salute on a par with the Nazi "heil" which is far from the case. WAAC officers along with army officers state that they feel upon receiving a salute, not only pride but also a deep sense of obligation and humility.

"While I was in training," states Lieut. Tiffany, who was stationed in Erie on temporary duty, "our captain told us in a very few words the whole story of the American salute. He said that when an enlisted soldier salutes a commissioned officer the salute says, in effect, 'Greetings! We are in this thing together and I honor your leadership and will follow to the best of my ability.' The return salute by the ranking officer says, 'Greetings on my part. I shall try by my leadership to be worthy of the faith you have in me and I honor your discipline'."

When a man salutes a woman he is not doing a type of penance. He is honoring not the woman, but the uniform of the United States. More and more good soldiers, sailors and marines are joining the ranks of men in the service who look on women in the service as comrades, as workers in the same struggle, and best of all—as good soldiers whom they are proud to salute, and who have earned their commissions.

STATE REGULATION OF LABOR UNIONS AIM OF MEASURE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 20.—A Republican-sponsored bill providing for state regulation of labor unions began to move through the general assembly today toward enactment.

The measure is sponsored by Sen George Woodward, of Philadelphia, and was reported out by the senate committee on labor and industry last night after having been under consideration since Jan. 5. It was slated to appear on today's first reading senate calendar.

As approved by the senate committee, reportedly by a vote of 7 to 6, the measure was extensively amended, a major revision being the deletion of the original requirement that labor unions make public their membership lists. Labor leaders asserted this provision would nullify collective bargaining.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Sol was looking for serviceable information relative to permanent peace's re-establishment. Parenthetically, it may seem as if he failed to find it, but, if he had had his way, I surmise that it might have been more lasting.

However, he and Mussolini got together. Benito introduced him to just the folk he wanted to see. And if those two had been left alone, I am gambling that they would have accomplished something permanent.

Sol has told me that, the minute he had presented his credentials, Bennie, from his managing editor's desk (it was before he developed into a Duce), sent directly out a messenger for a can of beer, to entertain them in Yankee fashion.

It speaks favorably for the cuss—to have recognized the difference between beer and one of his local vintages, for company.

Sol's and Benito's became interfamily friends.

My own theory is that Benito was weaned, internationally, away from relationship with Sol's household, by Adolf's influence. Sol told me this—

After German-American relations began to be strained, the Duce asked, plaintively, of our congressional foreign relations chairman's daughter, "Vera, have I changed?"

SUGGESTS SAVING PART OF POTATO FOR SOWING

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, April 20—Carl Rodgers of this city proposes a plan to "eat your potatoes and have them, too." He suggests that when preparing potatoes for the pot, cut off the seed or sprout end, and save it for planting, thus saving four-fifths of the potato for food and still retaining one-fifth for seed in the present shortage. He says this one-fifth will produce a meal for an average family.

2. To help our brave soldiers get home sooner and safer.
3. To meet and work with the splendid American women already in the Corps.
4. To increase my knowledge and skill for the peace to come.
5. For financial reasons — $50 a month with all expenses paid is actually more than my present $125 a month.
6. For adventure, travel and new experiences the Army offers.
7. To do ALL I can — I want a FULL-TIME war job.
8. To show the world that America as well as England and Russia has her women behind her.
9. My conscience is bothering me. My job isn't vital to the war effort, and why should others fight my battles?

Our Army has the spirit—men and women now do the many tasks of our great military machine. Men at the front; women behind the lines! Enough women to replace men for active duty means VICTORY in a shorter time. Women receive the same pay and training that men receive—except that they do not bear arms. They have the same high standards of work and morale. They are fighting for the same things. The Army is proud of its WAACS—but many more are needed. Tunisian Campaign Nearing Final Stage

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIGE
(Written Especially for International News Service

Furious air fighting, in which the fighter squadrons of Major General James H. Doolittle's North African air force won a sensational victory over the Nazi Luftwaffe, shooting down 131 planes in two days of practically continuous battle highlights the approach of the Tunisian campaign towards a final stage.

Territory conquered by American-British forces during the past few weeks includes in the neighborhood of 20 airports and landing fields within short fighter-hop of Bizerte and Tunis. The re-conditioning of thes fields is now pretty well completed. This enables American-British pursuit planes, shortest-range weapons of air war, to maintain continuous watch around the clock on the Axis air-ferry between Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's army and Axis bases in Sicily.

Power Will Increase

From now on, United Nations air power will steadily grow more active and potent in the fighting in Tunisia as airport facilities are expanded and increasing quantities of aviation fuel and bombs are brought forward to the close-up airfields.

Bombers will rake the positions of the Afrika Korps almost without let-up. Air reconnaissance planes will keep constant watch on the movements of Rommel's men. Swarms of fighter planes will form a buzzing cordon, cutting off and shooting down all enemy planes attempting to cross the narrow channel separating Tunisia from Sicily.

The events in today's headline dispatches constitute an excellent sample of the Axis headache that is to come. Accounts of the 48-hour battle that ended late last night are still coming in, but from the returns chalked up in allied headquarters in North Africa and in British near east headquarters in Cairo, it is evident that probably the greatest single victory in the history of air fighting has been won.

Late accounts, probably still incomplete, state that a grand total of 112 Axis planes were knocked out of the skies in the two days and one night covered by the intensive actions. Biggest air battle, probably the greatest plane-against-plane fight of the history of air war, took place late Sunday afternoon, when a large formation of American P-40s, known as Warhawks, working in concert with British Spitfire pursuit ships, suddenly shot through a cloud-bank onto the tail of a Nazi air fleet estimated at 100 Junker-52 transport planes, escorted by numerous Nazi fighter aircraft.

SEVENTH WARD

MAIL QUITE HEAVY

On Monday, at the Mahoningtown post office, the large amount of mail that was handled, dispatched and delivered, with the selling of bonds and war stamps, etc., kept the office force and carriers very busy. Ed. McBride, the superintendent, states that the volume was augmented by the sending of Easter packages to our boys in service stationed in the various camps. To the force it looked like a "young Christmas" rush.

MEETING POSTPONED

On account of the death of Mrs. Sarah Belle Campbell, who was the oldest member of the Signal Light Bible class, of the Mahoning Methodist church, the meeting of the class scheduled for tonight, has been postponed.

SOLDIERS VISIT MOTHERS

On Wednesday afternoon, at 1:30 the Red Cross Sewing Circle will meet at the Mahoningtown Presbyterian Church, for their weekly work session.

G. I. A. TO B. L. E.

On Thursday afternoon the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will have their regular lodge meeting in the green room of the Y. W. C. A. at 1:30 o'clock.

Third Ration Book Adds Motif Of War

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Ration Book No. 3, scheduled for distribution to consumers in mid-summer, will bring a war motif to rationing, the OPA disclosed today.

Designed to replace Book No. 1, the new book will contain four inside pages bearing ration stamps with pictures of guns, ships, tanks and airplanes.

For example, the OPA may designate the "gun" stamps for the purchase of shoes; the "ship" stamps for sugar, and the "tank" stamps for coffee.

Officials believe the selection of weapons as symbols will serve to remind the public of the war-imposed necessity for each rationing program and promote full co-operation among consumers.

Book No. 3 also will contain the now familiar "point" stamps used currently for the rationing of meat and processed foods.

High School Invests $6,000 To Buy Jeeps

Schools Tops 'Buy A Jeep' Goal By Nearly $1,500; Year's Total $28,000

At the start of the 'Buy a Jeep' campaign in the city schools, senior high school agreed to put enough money in war saving stamps and bonds between March 1 and April 16 to purchase five Jeeps at $900 each.

Actually, the sum of money invested in bonds at the high school during that period was $5,954.95, which means a sixth Jeep and two-thirds of a seventh, because the school went over the top by $1454.95.

Jeep campaign sales at the school raised the bond and stamp sales total for the school year to $27,968.45. A. C. Brown, is faculty member in charge of sales.

WAAC Enrollment Does Not Affect Wife's Allotment

A wife does not lose the marital allotment from a soldier, sailor or marine if she enrolls in the Woman's Army Auxiliary Corps, it was announced here.

This payment continued after her entry into the corps and augments her monthly WAAC pay which ranges from $50 to $138 a month, the same as enlisted men in the army.

The greatest evidence of love is to lay down your life to save another. Second greatest is to do it by giving blood plasma.

Women in the war!

There is considerable paper work in the Army, and WAAC secretaries and stenographers are needed to help do many jobs for the Army.

You, and your children, are included in total war. You are needed to help now in protecting your home, your family, your own security now and in the after-war world. You and your men are in this fight together, fighting for the same things, for the world to be the way you want it!

The job of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps is a big one, important to the war effort. There are hundreds of different types of jobs to be done. Men are needed in the fighting lines and women are needed to take their places in noncombatant duties so the men will be free to go.

Motorized equipment, trucks, guns, airplanes, tanks, require skilled technicians to keep them in repair. The WAAC turns out capable mechanics.

TRY QUESTIONS IN FAMILY WAAC QUIZ

Come on, folks! For men and women in the family, here's a new quiz game on the WAAC!

Get busy and read all the WAAC pages in this issue of New Castle News; then take up this questionnaire and see how many of the questions you can answer off-hand. Perhaps, just perhaps, men can beat the women at their own game.

Answers will be found below. But don't peek, please, until you've first tried your mind at the questions.

1. What is the present national quoto for WAACS? How was it established.
2. What is the new increased monthly quota for WAAC enrollment in the New Castle district?
3. Are WAACS eligible for overseas duty?
4. Can a WAAC marry a soldier while she is in the corps?
5. Are WAACS eligible for combat duty?
6. Can a WAAC be severely disciplined for getting out of uniform?
7. Who is in charge of the New Castle recruiting station?
8. Is a WAAC officer equivalent to a 2nd lieutenant in the army addressed as, "Third Officer Smith?"
9. Is a college education necessary to secure a high mark in the mental test required before enrollment?
10. How does the WAAC compare in size with other organizations?

Answers

1. 150,000. By executive order.
2. 75 per month.
3. Yes. Quite a few are now in North Africa, and England is to get 2,000 soon.
4. Yes. Many have done so.
5. No. They can serve in combat areas, but are not eligible for combat duty.
6. Not if she is off-duty. Colonel Hobby is in favor of WAACS donning feminine attire whenever the opportunity arises off-duty. The colonel believes a good soldier can still be a feminine one.
7. Sgt. John T. Bilpuch at present. When he leaves shortly for C. C. S., Private First Class Kenneth Cloukey will take over.
8. No. She is addressed as Lt. Smith.
9. No. Some of the highest marks have been made by naturally intelligent women who have not even finished high school. Nor is a college education required for entrance into Officer Candidate School.
10. The WAAC is the largest organization of women in military uniform and under military discipline ever to serve. Naturally, this makes advancement spectacular for those worthy of it.

Says Hitler Is Most Infamous Villian Of World

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull denounced Adolf Hitler today as a combination of the most infamous villians that history has known.

Asked if he cared to comment on the fact that today marked "an infamous milestone in history—the anniversary of Hitler's birth," the secretary broke a standing rule and allowed himself to be quoted directly as he compared Hitler to Nero and Caligula and Attila the Hun combined.

"I think," the secretary stated, "that it reminds peoples, peaceful peoples and human beings throughout the world of the fact that the person to whose birthday you refer along with such other persons as Tojo, combine all the cruelty and fiendishness and inhumanity of Nero and Caligula and Attila in one."

Nero and Caligula were cruel Roman emperors and Attila was a Hun general, also noted for his barbarity and cruelty.

TOTAL OF PLANES SHOT OUT OF SKIES IN TWO DAYS 112

La Sebala, while American P-38 Lightning fighters which flew as escorts to the bombers prevented enemy fighters from attacking.

Spitfires and Warhawks ranged afield on a continual search for new fleets of aerial transports and patrolled the northeast coast virtually without letup. There was no hint as to what the huge Junkers might be carrying, although previous announcements of successful attacks on the big transport planes had said it was apparent that they were loaded with fuel and crated material.

Stiff Ground Fighting

Stiff ground fighting was reported on the central sector of the shrinking battlefront where French troops successfully repulsed an enemy counter-attack.

Continued patrolling in preparation for the final all-out battle to oust the Germans and Italian from North Africa was reported from other sectors along the front from Enfidaville on the east coast to Cap Serrat in the north.

The counter-attack against the French was launched Sunday night but was "easily repulsed", a communique issued by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said.

"Fighters of the tactical air force yesterday continued their offensive sweeps off the Tunisian coast and destroyed 12 Junkers-52 transports and eight other craft," it was stated.

Total Rises To 88

It was disclosed from additional reports on Sunday's large-scale air victory in which 85 enemy craft first were announced was destroyed that three more Axis fighters were smashed, bringing the total to 88.

Throughout yesterday, the communique said, allied fighter craft maintained sweeps over the forward battle areas and destroyed four enemy planes.

Medium and light bombers made several attacks on the La Sebala airfield while fighter-bombers blasted at a concentration of Axis tanks.

"Both these targets were well covered with bombs," the communique said.

Flying Fortresses of the strategic air force meanwhile hammered at the port of Tunis and shipping in the harbor. Bombs were seen to fall in the dock area.

Twelve Missing

"On the night of April 18-19," continued to communique, "light and medium bombers continued their attacks on enemy airfields in Tunisia, reporting large fires at La Marsa.

"From all these operations 12 of our aircraft are missing."

The furious allied air assaults were believed to be exacting a heavy toll of Axis dead.

Enemy losses in aircraft assumed gigantic proportions as American and British fliers blasted repeatedly at Axis communication lines across the Mediterranean from Tunisia and struck particularly heavy blows at the air transports taking men out of the French protectorate.

In the 24-hour period up to 10 a. m. yesterday the Axis had lost 68 Junkers-52 transports, bringing the toll of this type of craft destroyed to 159 since April 5.

(Cairo dispatches indicated that on the basis of 20 or more men to a transport the Axis may have lost some 1,500 men during Sunday and Monday alone.)

Nazis Lose 1500 Planes In Month

(A broadcast by the Algiers radio said that the Germans had lost nearly 1,500 planes in the past month.)

The greatest air victory of the North African campaign was scored Sunday when a total of 85 Axis craft were shot down, 74 of them in a single engagement. Of the latter 58 were Junkers-52's caught at Cap Bon and smashed to the ground by American Warhawks and British Spitfires.

The air arm bore the brunt of assaults in the battle area as allied ground forces engaged in patrol actions to draw tighter their hold on German and Italian troops pocketed in northeast Tunisia.

Few details of ground action were revealed by allied headquarters, although the French on one sector improved their position while Britain's eighth army continued to feel out Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's defenses along the Enfidaville line.

Fighting French forces to the west of the Enfidaville fortifications took Rag El Hejij, 40 miles west of Enfidaville on the east coast north of Sousse, and captured 64 Italians.

Score New Advances

(First army troops commanded by British Lieut. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson were reported by the Morocco radio to have scored a new advance northwest of Medjez-El-Bab, 35 miles southwest of Tunis, but this announcement was not officially confirmed.)

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said nothing which would indicate the type of personnel aboard the transports brought down in the Cap Bon debacle.

(Dispatches from Cairo hinted that the large Nazi aircraft possibly were evacuating key German officers and men of Rommel's Afrika Korps. One account of the destruction of the enemy air armada quoted pilots as declaring they saw 40 to 50 of the transports flaming on the beaches where they had crashed near Cap Bon.)

Official accounts estimated that 100 transports in all were attempting to make their way across the Sicilian strait when the Warhawks and Spitfires attacked. The bag of 74 planes in the terrific allied assault included, besides the 58 transports, 14 Messerschmitt 109's and two Messerschmitt 110's.

The large formation of enemy craft was putting out toward Sicily almost at sea level in an effort to ward off disaster. Many of the enemy fliers when they realized they were being attacked crash-landed on the beaches in an attempt to save themselves.

(The Berlin correspondent of the Nazi-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau meanwhile sent a dispatch to Stockholm quoting Rome reports of violent surface fighting in the Sicilian straits.

(It was asserted that British destroyers were attacking Axis convoys trying to make their way to Tunis under escort of warships. The Rome account reported a night battle in which a British destroyer of the Jervis class was said to have broken off action after being damaged.)

A night club in Mexico City is said to have solved the "how to dress" problem. Patrons are grouped in three separate halls. The main floor is for formally dressed couples; the second, for those in overalls, house dresses and other working clothes. The basement is reserved for those who like to dance in their bare feet.

MEN AT THE FIGHTING FRONT . . . Women on the home front. That is today's set-up, in total war.

But where is this home front? Everywhere, nowadays, except in battle. In the grim conflict which now absorbs the full energy of many nations, the place of a woman is wherever she can be most useful, wherever she is needed most.

Thus the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps is now, for many women, the ultimate in opportunity, because a woman may take the place of a man, freeing him for combat duty. He can go into a combat unit because she is behind the lines, doing work suited to her powers.

Members of the WAAC drive trucks, keep stock records, repair bombsights, make weather observations, repair radio apparatus, and perform scores of other important military duties that women can do as well as men.

For every woman thus engaged in non-combatant duties, our enemies are faced by another fighting American soldier.

Women can bring the day of Victory nearer by enrolling in the WOMEN'S ARMY AUXILIARY CORPS.

AGAIN THE FLAG passes by. Proudly these members of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps carry the Stars and Stripes.

In peace and war, other women, singly and together, have looked to the Flag for protection, inspiration, and hope. It has always been dear to American women.

Today American women guard the colors. Today the Waacs look on this Flag with a new sense of possession, because they themselves carry it as partners of the soldiers at the front. Because they perform noncombatant duties which must be performed and which hitherto were performed by the men of the Army, those men are free to fight.

Together, men of the Army and women of the WAAC—with the same high standards, the same great purpose—follow the Flag in this war.

If you are a woman citizen of the United States, between the ages of 21 and 44, inclusive, and meet the standards for enrollment in the WAAC, your opportunity to help in the fight for victory may be found in membership in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. Second Attack Made On Kupang

Timor Island Base Is Blasted By Allied Fliers On Second Night

(International News Service)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 20.—General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters today announced a second attack in two nights on the important Japanese base at Kupang, on Timor Island. Large fires kindled in the town area were visible for a distance of 30 miles.

Five enemy airdromes on New Guinea and New Britain also were attacked and an enemy vessel was bombed near the Tenimber Islands.

The airports bombed, in the continuing drive to hamper Japanese attempts to increase their air strength for what is believed to be a forthcoming new offensive in the South Pacific, were assaulted by United Nations planes operating singly.

They attacked the airdromes at Hollandia on Dutch New Guinea, Gasmata and Cape Gloucester on New Britain, Lae on the north coast of New Guinea. Fires were started in the town area of Finschhafen, northwest of Lae.

The enemy vessel, a small coastal boat, was bombed in the Selwassa Bar, off Jamdena Island.

Cold-Pack Canning May Poison Family

(International News Service)

CHICAGO—Housewives may poison their families by using the "extremely dangerous" cold-pack canning method, Dr. Gail M. Dack, associate professor of bacteriology at the University of Chicago, warned today.

Pressure cookers, which heat foods to a point that kills the often fatal micro-organisms, are the only safe canners, concludes Dr. Dack after months of research with all types of food poisoning.

"If a housewife cannot use a pressure cooker, she should re-boil her canned food for 15 minutes before serving," he declared. "She should never taste canned food having a disagreeable odor or showing gas pressure."

Home canned string beans and corn are mostly responsible for the serious food poisoning known as "botulism," he said, but all home preserved foods may harbor it. Thorough cleaning, heating and canning soon after gathering are the only preventives.

Less deadly but more common is the kind of poisoning generally known as "ptomaine". Cream-filled bakery goods, ham, chicken gravy, hollandaise sauce, chocolate eclairs and liver sausage are the most common carriers, Dr. Dack pointed out.

HERE'S RECIPE TO WIN BOYS OF ALL AGES

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA — Here, upon the word of Miss Helen C. Boyd, is the recipe to popularity with boys of all ages.

Take two and two-thirds cups of granulated sugar; two blocks of chocolate; one-third cup white corn syrup; half cup of water and a pinch of salt. Boil until the mixture forms a soft ball when dropped in water. Remove from stove, add a tablespoon of vanilla; allow to cool and then whip it until the shine goes off.

Just in case the reader hasn't yet recognized it, that's the recipe for fudge—and the recipe through which Miss Boyd, head of the traveling candy kitchen for the Philadelphia Council of Defense, warms the hearts and the stomachs of America's soldier boys.

Many men hope to own jeeps after the war, but Alas! those things are made for a guy who doesn't care about gas mileage.

McCullar, 27, above, of Courtland, Miss., was killed ironically by a baby kangaroo. The animal was struck by the major's bomber as it was taking off from an airbase and the plane crashed, exploding its load of bombs. Pennsylvania Plans To Train Farm Hands

(International News Service)

UPPER DARBY, Pa. — A satisfactory solution to the farm labor shortage was seen for 11 northwestern states by FSA regional director J. H. Wood in a meeting of farm representatives from Maine to Maryland.

Wood instructed field forces to seek the cooperation of other agencies at once and begin the recruiting, training and placing of workers on farms needing year-round help. Some workers, at the employer's option, may be trained on the farms where they will be employed.

Wood told the conference:

"We've got to bring relief to the farmer at the earliest possible date if we are to stop the sale of dairy herds to butchers."

The regional director said every effort will be made to find year-round jobs for the workers in their own localities.

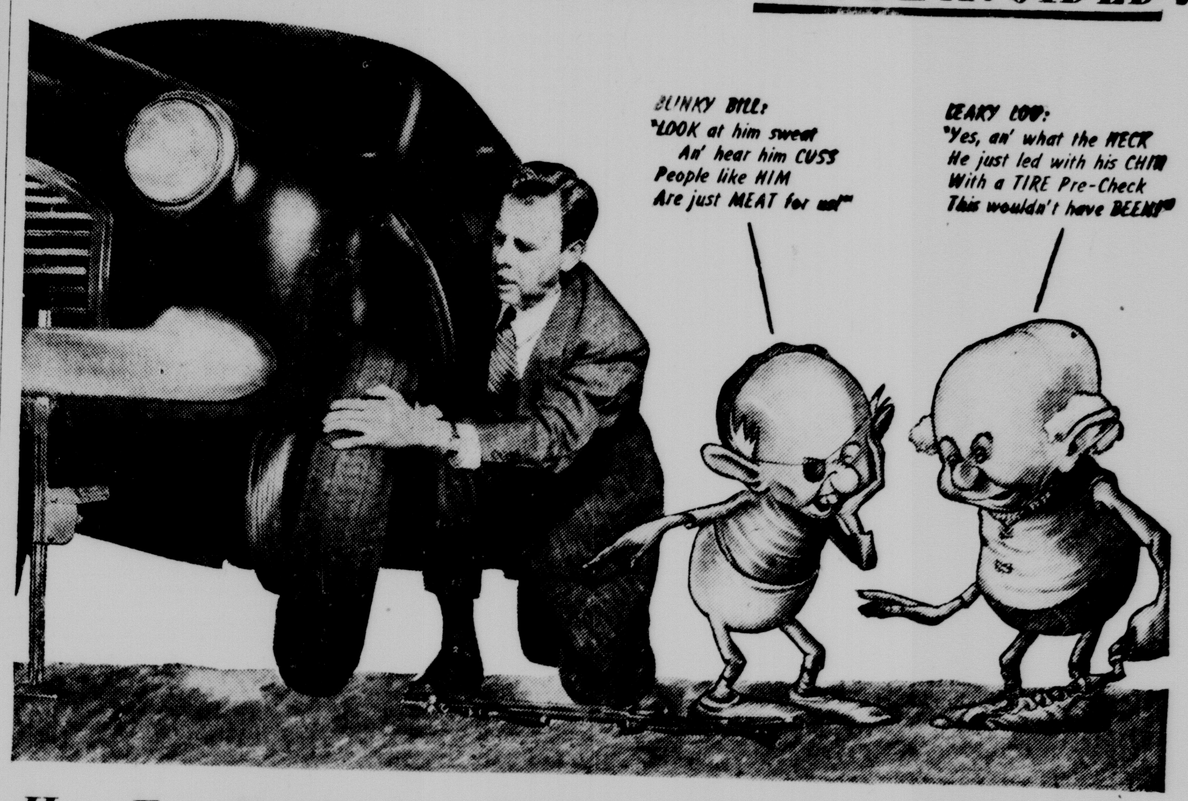

Mrs. Kathryn Mills, associate state director, reported that help was needed by 3,000 farms in the northeastern dairy area of Pennsylvania and 2,000 in the northwest section of the state.

How Esso Dealers' new "TIRE PRE-CHECK SERVICE" can save you trouble and Save Your Tires!

SLOW leaks caused by nails, tacks, bad valves, etc., can exist long before the tire actually fails on the road. But such tires waste rubber by running "soft," and finally produce "flats" that need not happen. Just replacing lost air once a week is not enough. A recent check of over 2000 cars showed that nearly three-quarters of them needed air in one or more tires. Slow leaks can be spotted, and the trouble fixed nine times out of ten before the tire goes flat.

To do this, your Esso Dealer offers this new, simple, and proved TIRE PRE-CHECK service:

He will accurately hand-gauge each tire before air is pumped in.

Any excessive loss of pressure in one tire is instantly spotted, can then easily and quickly be repaired—with a patch, a new valve, or whatever is needed—before the damage goes too far.

He will scientifically check mileage left on each tire, and switch tires for longest possible mileage.

Finally, tires are accurately filled to wartime pressure of not less than 32 pounds.

Chocolate Bunny Is Drafted But Easter Spirit Not Changed

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., April 20.—Prentiss Brown and the O. P. A. won't prevent your dyeing real old-fashioned Easter eggs but they have already prohibited confectioners from making moulded chocolate bunnies. The chocolate Easter rabbit has been drafted too and he now takes up a more glamorous career—providing energy for our fighting men.

The government said "no" very definitely to the use of chocolate in novelty shapes for holiday periods. Most of the candy-makers can buy only 60 per cent of the chocolate they used two years ago. Creams and crystalized candies too are out of the question because of the large quantity of sugar required. Jelly beans, a limited amount, will be on sale, but only the first at the counters will be lucky.

Confectioners Hit

Many confectioners have depended on their Easter sales and profits to carry them for quite a period. One Erie confectioner stated that this is the first time in his 40 years of business that he will not handle Easter candy—but he wasn't complaining. He expressed wholehearted willingness to do all he could to cooperate in the country's war efforts.

Even Easter baskets, made of straw, will be scarce this year, because most of them came from Japan. But if you still want baskets for those eggs you're going to dye, you might brighten up last year's baskets with water color paints. That is, if you can find those baskets in the attic or basement.

Bermuda Lily Substitutes

And next on the list to be affected are the lilies, the smooth, pure-looking symbols of Easter. Bermuda lilies, rightfully called, will be substituted this year by Creole lilies, because shipping space to import them from Bermuda is not available. The Creole lilies, which look much the same, are now grown commercially in Louisiana, Florida and Oregon.

But the Easter paraders may sigh with relief—there will be Easter bonnets this year as fine as ever or practically as fine. The variety may be limited but most of the same garments, suits, coats and dresses are on the market as last year. True, the Easter finery costs more, but they'll carry the spirit of the season just the same.

And with all the limitations, one thing won't be changed—the real meaning of Easter.

Debating Team Of High School Visits Rotary

Panel Discussion On Post-War Problems Shows Students Alive To Situation

Accompanied by their coach, Miss Mildred D. Burleson, high school debaters were guests of the New Castle Rotary club at their noon luncheon meeting Monday when they presented a panel discussion on post-war problems, showing that they are very much alive to the situation which is confronting them as they are about to take their place in the world.

Following the presentation of their plan for a world court or federation of nations, an animated discussion took place between the debaters and members of Rotary.

Miss Helen Connery acted as moderator, and those who took part in the program were: Jane Roberts, Nancy Gilliland, Madeline Grushetsky and Joe Jordan.

Special guests of the club were Yoeman Second Class Bernard J. Hanlon, son of Bernard N. Hanlon, who is stationed at Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, Ia., and Technical Sgt. George Crawford Lyon, son of George E. Lyon, both of whom are home on furloughs.

Second Group Of Overseas WAACS To Go To England

It was recently announced that the second group of WAACs to go overseas would probably go, about 2,000 strong, to England. Captain Anna W. Wilson of Studio City, California, will command this second WAAC expeditionary force, and will be WAAC director in the foreign theatre of operations.

The original overseas group, commanded by Captain Frances Marquis of New York, went to North Africa this past December.

American expeditionary forces of WAACs go to release United States soldiers doing administrative and supply work in combat areas, so that they can go to the front for combat duty.

One Cent Gas Tax To Remain

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 20—There seemed to be little hope today for Pennsylvania's millions of motorists that the one-cent a gallon gasoline tax would be eliminated at the present session of the legislature. The tax was enacted in 1935 as emergency legislation designed to help defray the cost of unemployment relief.

"It doesn't look to me now as though it can be eliminated," asserted Gov. Edward Martin at his news conference late yesterday. The chief executive had stated several weeks ago that it might be possible to abolish the levy.

The tax is now expected to be reenacted for another two years, having already received house approval. It is estimated that it will bring in $17,000,000 during the current biennium ending May 31, when the tax would automatically expire unless extended.

TWO GIRLS HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Jeanine Jeffreys, 14, of 136 Wallace avenue and Lealia Church, also 14, of 217 Bluff street, sustained lacerations and received treatment Monday afternoon in the Jameson Memorial hospital because of an auto crash.

According to reports they were in an auto the driver of which was not stated.

Going south into Wilmington avenue at North Jefferson street, and in order to avoid an accident with another car going north, the driver of the auto containing the girls swerved it and it struck a parked car, it was reported.

CHARGE DRIVER OF STOLEN CAR DRUNK

James Venezio, 511 John street, will be charged by Chief of police Willis G. McMullen with driving an auto while intoxicated last night the chief stated today.

Police arrested Venezio in Lawrence street at 12:30 a. m., after he reportedly stole the auto of Glenn A. Reno, Wampum, R. D. 1, from Cascade Park vicinity.

TRAINED WAACS IMPRESS PEOPLE OF DES MOINES

Townspeople Near First WAAC Training Center Testify To Snappiness, Industry Of Trainees

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 20.—Ever since seeing the very first snappy WAAC parade downtown in Des Moines, it has been causing reflections.

The first and most obvious thing was the splendid appearance the WAACs made. Serious, well-drilled, very impressive as to the spirit of this country.

These young women WORK. The officers out of the fort are always testifying to the fine way they buckle to everything that they have to do. The parade was a demonstration of it.

Didn't Believe It

Our second reflection was, "Suppose somebody had told us a couple of years ago that in November of 1942, Des Moines would be the 'West Point' of a women's uniformed army and that on Thanksgiving day, for instance there would be about 8,500 WAACs in training here."

Our third reflection is that, when the WAAC army was first decided on, a lot of folks lifted their eyebrows and wondered whether this was necessary or wise. We don't mean folks in Des Moines primarily. We mean folks all over the country.

Our next reflection is on those last two reflections.

Everybody now knows that the organization of the WAACs is a great and thoroughly practical contribution to our war effort. Thousands and thousands of the young women are getting trained here and then are going out to military locations all over the country—and abroad, too—to replace an equal number of fighting men in non-combatant duties and to free those fighting men for fighting assignments.

Our government deserves the country's thanks for having the foresight to start organizing the WAAC early, even at a time when many Americans didn't fully appreciate the need, so as to have these trained women ready when the need was very apparent.

City Is Happy

And Des Moines, which, like every other community, wanted to be a center of something important to the war effort, is very happy that it was chosen to be the center of this particular enterprise.

We are glad, here, to be producing in factories lots of the inanimate material needed for victory. We are glad to be the center of a region which on its farms is producing equally essential stuff.

But the most distinctive and exceptional contribution that is being made here is the training and sending out of the thousands of fine and competent young women as officers and auxiliaries of the WAAC.

We are proud of the WAACs, and are vain enough to feel that wherever they go they are peculiarly "ours."

American forces stationed in New Zealand are supplied, through lend-lease arrangements, with the bulk of their foodstuffs, especially fresh meats, dairy products, fruits and vegetables.

First WAACS At Attention In North Africa

Blind, Crippled Working In Erie War Industries

State Bureau Of Rehabilitation Places Handicapped In Highly Paid War Jobs

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., April 20.—The future isn't so bleak for the blind and the crippled anymore. The war and the state's rehabilitation program are paving dividends in Erie, where the sightless ones and the cripples are earning from $30 to $80 a week in industrial plants.

A few years ago physically handicapped persons had no place in the normal sphere of life around them and they were pushed behind the scenes of real activity. But these men have now been given a new lease in life through the efforts of the Bureau of Rehabilitation of the State Department of Labor and Industry. Last year the bureau placed 53 men in jobs in Erie industries.

Industries Cooperate

In time of war, everyone works, and the bureau gave the training necessary to fit handicapped men for jobs in which they could earn their living. The bureau operates in cooperation with the U.S. Employment Office and the Department of Public Assistance. Erie plants and industries have in turn given generous cooperation. Regardless of their disabilities, men and women who have never been able to work before have been given jobs.

Leonard Gusky, head of the Bureau of Rehabilitation, says, "these men never had a chance to make a living. Today all those who apply and are employable get jobs. This will give you an idea: One man who couldn't get a job a few years ago, today is earning $60 per week."

Mike Smith, who is blind and known to many residents of Erie, worked on a W.P.A. braille project for awhile and thought it was the only work he was capable of doing. Then the braille project closed down for lack of funds. The bureau headed by Gusky stepped in and placed Mike in a good job at the Clifton Automatic. The bureau has achieved remarkable success in its efforts for men with virtually no sight now operate intricate machinery, and men with no limbs now work every day in gainful industries.

Wampum, radioman.

GROVE CITYITES LAND SAME TROUT

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, April 20—"Share the fish" is the slogan of Police Chief James Reed and Ellis Klink, local OCD commander, each of whom hooked a 12-inch brown trout in Wolf Creek's East and collaborated in landing it. Both hooks were firmly embedded.

A companion, Francis (Skinny) Hall, watched the feat with open mouth, then reeled in his line. "I'm through—I've seen everything," he said.

WILL PEP CLIPS ANGEL'S WINGS

Lightweight Sensation Gains 10-Round Decision In Tampa Ring

(International News Service)

TAMPA, Fla., April 20—Lightweight Willie Pep today had another victory to his credit, a 10-round decision gained over Angel Aviles last night before a crowd of 2,600 in the Tampa Municipal auditorium.

Aviles' unorothodox style, in which he switched from time to time from a left-hand to right-hand stance and back again, had Willie puzzled at times.

Cops Six Rounds

Pep was given the first six rounds by small margins. The seventh was even and in the last three Angel rallied to take them all, but by a narrow edge.

The only knockdown in the battle came in the last few seconds when Aviles' left swing smashed into Willie's midsection and knocked him through the ropes. Pep weigned in at 133 and Aviles at 132.

Iowa Nurses Slow To Enter War Work

(International News Service)

DES MOINES, Ia.—Only 40 per cent of Iowa's graduate nurses have returned questionnaires indicating their availability for national, state and local emergencies, Alma E. Hartz, R. N., chairman of the state nursing war council revealed today.

"Our goal is 100 per cent registration of Iowa nurses," she asserted. "This registration is completely voluntary and the government wants to hear from every graduate in every city, town and farm."

Miss Hartz urged every nurse who has not answered the card sent to her during the survey to find it, complete it and return it immediately to the special agent, United States public health service, 503 Shops building, Des Moines, Ia.

She added:

"None but graduate nurses can give full, skilled nursing service to the country. The government is asking every graduate nurse, married or single, active or inactive, to report where she is, what she is doing and what she is best able to do.

"Some may be able to contribute only a few hours weekly; others may be able to serve only in an emergency, but the important thing is for all to make themselves known."

Vaudeville A 'Sellout' At Alcatraz

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO—Sid Grauman, Broadway producer, and impresario extraordinary, who has brought vaudeville back to San Francisco's Alcazar theater, returned to his San Francisco hotel the other day after seeing a special performance for inmates of San Quentin prison.

He woke after a nap at about 4 o'clock and suddenly wondered how business was at the matinee performance.

"Please get me the Alcazar," he said to the telephone operator. When the connection was made, Sid, assuming he was talking to the Alcazar asked: "What kind of a house you got?"

"It's a sellout!" was the reply.

"That's swell!" said Sid.

"Oh no . . ."said the voice on the other end of the line, deprecatingly. "Just the usual thing. We're always sold out over here."

Dumfounded, Grauman exclaimed, "Say . . . is this the Alcazar theater?"

"Heck, no" was the reply. "This is the Alcatraz Federal Prison—and the crowd isn't laughing."

LONG MAY SHE STAND IN FREEDOM'S LAND

How symbolic is our Statue of Liberty! It stands for all that is America—Freedom, Hope, Idealism, Democracy. It stands for all that is threatened by Totalitarianism. We can almost imagine the fiendish pride which its bombing would bring to a Nazi pilot. It's bombing is possible — but WE can make it IMpossible.

Ranking Officers Of U. S. Army Tell Of Need For WAAC

Efficiency Of Women's Corps Caused Army's Request For Its Expansion To 150,000

Does the Army need the WAAC? Men who should know say yes.

Men who are responsible for our success against the A is force declare that women have proved beyond any doubt that they can perform many duties as efficiently as men.

One of the ding proponents of the Women's Army Auxiliary corps, Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, declared: "There are innumerable duties now being performed by soldiers that actually can be done better by women.

It was for these reasons that the Army glady accepted the formation of the WAAC. Now that the members have proven themselves, the Army has requested an expansion of the corps to 150,000.

Commanders of Army posts throughout the country have requested WAAC units—a total far greater than the authorized strength. Our armies overseas are also requesting units of the WAAC to be assigned to duty in their forces.

Officers Praise Corps

Any doubts as to the WAAC's welcome have been dispelled by reports from ranking officers.

"We are very glad to have you with us," said Col. Frederick G. Rogers, commanding officer of Fort Sheridan, Ill., to his WAAC's. "Reports come in from every office in which you are employed that they don't know how they got along without you. Wherever you go, that feeling will be experienced by those with whom you work."

Commanding officer of Fort Huachuca, Ariz., Col. Edwin N. Hardy, reported this about his WAAC unit: "These young women are showing marked ability and genius in taking over essential jobs from able-bodied men. Yet they have been giving their brother soldiers keen competition in military adherence. All of us are glad to have the WAAC's at Fort Huachuca. They are proving of real value in our war effort at their stations."

James A. Ulio, adjutant general of the United States Army, sums it as follows: "We need women to do many essential military tasks. This is a great team play and womenpower will have an important part in the victory."

Red Cross Organizes Dietician Aide Corps

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20—In communities which request such service the American Red Cross is creating a new volunteer corps, the Red Cross Volunteer Dieticians' Aide Corps, Mrs. Dwight Davis, national director, has announced.

The new group is being established in response to demands from hospitals throughout the country and will be organized in co-operation with the American Dietetic Association and the Red Cross Nutrition Service.

Preceded by the Volunteer Nurse's Aide Corps and the Hospital and Recreation Corps, more familiarly known as the "Gray Ladies", the Volunteer Dieticians' Aide Corps is the third Red Cross Volunteer group to enter hospital service.

GARDEN HINTS

CELERY

Good celery can be produced only on rich, but well-drained moist soil, and stable manure and commercial fertilizer in considerable quantity must be used.

Golden Plume is an early, yellow, easy blanching variety, Easy Blanching a mid-season variety, and Fordhook, Emperor, and Houser are late varieties which blanch white and possess good quality. The late varieties are good for storage for winter use.

Early celery is seeded in the hotbed or greenhouse in early March. Since celery seed is very small and germinates slowly the seedbed must be very fine, the seeds covered lightly, and the moisture supply continuous if a satisfactory stand of plants is to be secured. The seedbed should be shaded with a newspaper to prevent rapid evaporation, but the paper must be removed as soon as the plants begin to appear.

Early celery should be transplanted from the seed flat to other flats or a hotbed 1 to 1½ inches apart and then to the garden about May 15, when care must be taken not to set the plants deeper than they stood before. Celery sometimes is planted in a trench over a layer of rotted manure, but it should be remembered that when planted on the level it is easier to cultivate and less subject to disease.

Late celery plants are started in an outside seedbed as early as the ground can be prepared and transplanted in the garden row in July. Irrigation nearly always is necessary if good celery is to be produced. Yellow varieties are blanched by placing boards or papers close to the plants on either side of the row or by wrapping individual plants with paper. In 10 days to two weeks they should be sufficiently blanched for use. Late or "green" celery is gradually banked up with earth in the row.

(Clip and preserve for future reference).

FOR VICTORY—BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

THE 2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON!

Winner Take All!

There is one stark and simple fact about war which you had better get straight . . . and quickly, too

THERE IS NO SECOND PLACE IN A WAR—IT'S EITHER WIN OR LOSE!

This war is being fought for tremendous stakes . . .

. . . for your life and your liberty.

. . . for your church and your children.

. . . for your freedom and your future.

And it's WINNER TAKE ALL. Don't forget that for a minute.

The winner will dictate whether tomorrow you shall be a free citizen of a free world, or a helpless serf to a "master race."

The winner will dictate whether you shall live and prosper under the Four Freedoms, or toil hopelessly in the darkness of a "New Order."

The winner will dictate . . . because the winner takes all.

The winner takes all. All you own, all you hold dear.

The winner is being decided right now . . . today . . . this very minute . . . on battlefields all over the world. Will you stand idly by . . . or throw all your weight on our side?

The weight of mighty tanks and planes. The weight of thousands of guns and millions of shells. The weight of billions of dollars . . . 13 billions which your country asks you to lend during this Drive.

Your country wants to borrow every idle dollar you have—every dollar except what you need for the barest necessities of life.

You'll have to give up some luxury or comfort which was dear to your heart. You'll have to postpone some pleasure which you had been eagerly anticipating.

But what of it?

Your sons and brothers and husbands are dying out there . . . fighting your fight. Surely it is no sacrifice to lend your dollars while they are giving their lives.

They need your help. They need the weapons your money can buy. If one of the War Loan volunteers calls on you . . . greet him with open pocketbook. Remember, Uncle Sam's goal is 13 billion dollars in April.

Don't wait to be asked. Go to your nearest bank, investment dealer, broker, Post Office or issuing agency and lay your money on the line. Remember, it's an investment you're making—an investment that pays a good return and insures a happier future for you and your loved ones.

So lend up to the limit.

You'll sleep better for it.

The schedules are set, the players have finished training, the fans are waiting. Batter Up! Play Ball!

NATS-ATHLETICS CLASH IN CAPITOL; McNUTT HURLS BALL

Last Minute News Hits Opening Ceremony; Crosetti, Lombardi Quit Holdout Ranks; Johnny Vander Meer, Mike McCormick Get Uncle Sam's Nod; See Pitcher's Year; McNutt Reiterates That Baseball Non-Essential To War Effort; Voices Prediction Game Will Continue Throughout Second Wartime Season; Draft Situation Key Factor.

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 20.—Two holdouts have signed up and two other top flight players face induction into the army as last minute war-filigreed highlights to the 1943 baseball season which opens today.

Frankie Crosetti, suspended veteran New York Yankee infielder, and Ernie Lombardi, Boston Braves catcher who led the National League in hitting last season, capitulated at the 11th hour, just on the heels of the announcement that Pitcher Johnny (double no-hit) Vander Meer and outfielder Mike McCormick, of the Cincinnati Reds, got the well known beckon from Uncle Samuel.

Draft Key Factor

Thus is baseball finally ready to start its second war-time season with uncertainty casting a shadow over prospects of every club. The draft is settling the issue in the major league pennant races.

Two of the American League's most down-trodden and dishelved teams were to start the season with a single game at Washington today, where the hapless and hopeless Philadelphia Athletics met the Ditto Senators. Fittingly, Man-power Commissioner Paul McNutt was to throw out the first ball.

Tomorrow the rest will have at each other, barring inclement weather, and with that the strange, utterly perplexing races will be under way. They plan to go all the way to the world series, even if they have to draft old gentlewomen from around the vicinity of the ball parks, and that may yet prove to be their only alternative.

However, it's baseball. And everybody seems agreed that any baseball is better than no baseball.

What the season will bring forth technically is problematical. Already some grousing has broken out over the new ball, which seems to be deader even than last season's ball.

See Pitcher's Year

This seems to indicate that 1943 will be a pitcher's year—one in which the hitters will be delighted with a hit, much less a home run—and that means the hitters who are left behind. Most of the best of them are gone.

In the face of all that, the St. Louis Cardinals have been established as co-favorites to repeat in the National League. The Brooklyn Dodgers share in the problematical honor.

In the American, it's the Yankees, but before betting on that, try to figure out at even money who will be playing what position for any club by mid-June.

By BILL ZIMMERMAN
I. N. S. Sports Writer

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The man who may force baseball to close today opens the game's 1943 wartime season.

Paul V. McNutt, the nation's war manpower chief, whose directives are expected to send 14 out of every 16 physically fit men of draft age into the army this year, tosses out a fateful first ball in today's inaugural game at Griffith stadium between the Washington Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Game Non-Essential

On the eve of the new diamond campaign, McNutt reiterated that baseball is non-essential to the war effort. The manpower chief voiced the prediction that the game would be able to continue throughout its second wartime season but he would go no further than that.

When a reporter expressed the opinion that the game was on "the way out," McNutt replied:

"I think you are entirely wrong. There will be some older men that can play the game. They may not be as good but there will be some who can hold down first base."

McNutt was sympathetic toward the problem faced by the national game but declined to alter his previous stand.

"I have no objection to spectator sports as long as they get there in the right way," he said. But there was no gainsaying the fact that baseball is non-essential in the eyes of the WMC chief.

Delay May Help

Reshuffling of draft machinery holding off induction of fathers may aid the game but probably not for long. Drafting of men with children, who now make up a large part of the nation's teams, will probably start just about the middle of the season or when the clubs are on the home stretch.

For the second time in the war baseball is also without its good-luck pitcher—Franklin D. Roosevelt. Because of his war duties the president was unable to toss out the opening pitch and McNutt, a star pitcher in his Indiana college days, was selected.

Jenkins, Ramey On Fight Docket

Jenkins Reached Semi-Finals In Recent A. A. U. Ring Meet

RAMEY, "BRIGHTEST YOUNGSTOWN BOXER"

When the Fraternal Order of Police hold a boxing show to benefit the Police Pension fund in The Arena, one week from Wednesday night the fans will see Clyde Jenkins of Uniontown who went to the semi-finals in the recent national A. A. U. boxing tourney in Boston fight Chris Tobar who defeated Roy Crews here recently and Joe Ramer of Niles, termed the brightest pugilistic prospect in the recent Youngstown K of C tourney battle. Norm Sweeney of Youngstown, in all there will be eight bouts.

Ramer won the McKelvey award when he defeated Eugene Douglas in the 126-pound division. The victory also won him the K of C featherweight title.

On the card will be three brothers, the Nulphs of Pulaski, something seldom witnessed on the same night in the same ring.

Because of war having drained the amateur ranks of many of the more seasoned "veterans" the calendar will be strange to the fans. However, amateurs can fight and do. Here's the card:

Chris Tabor, Niles, vs Clyde Jenkins, Uniontown, 160.

Eddie Kemetz, Uniontown, vs Rayburn Nulph, Pulaski, 140.

Wilbur Thomas, Uniontown vs Emil Cannell, New Castle, 126.

Chuck Nulph, Pulaski vs Eddie Timpson, Youngstown, 135.

Ray Fulkerson, Franklin vs Buddy Harrison, Uniontown, 118.

Joe Ramer, Niles vs Norm Sweeney, Youngstown, 135.

Al Werden, Niles vs Joe Kupiec, Youngstown, 165.

Nick McGlade, Youngstown, vs Verne Nulph, Pulaski, 118.

Ramey took the coming bout at the 135 poundage because he is growing and does not desire to make 126 pounds it was explained today.

NOTCH VS. PADLO

Art Rooney and his fistic partner, Barney McGinley have "okayed" Jake Mintz new match for the April 26 card which will find Jackie Wilson, former N.B.A. featherweight champion battling Willie Pep, the current king of the 126-pounders. The new match is Carmen Notch, Pittsburgh vs Mayon Padlo, Philadelphia welterweight. Recently Padlo, a hard-puncher, went right hand crazy against Fritzie Zivic. Of course crafty Fritzie didn't let Padlo land

Titan Athlete Killed In Crash

LT. HAROLD PFAU

NEW WILMINGTON, April 20—First Westminster athlete to lose his life in the war, Lt. Harold C. (Hunch) Pfau, of New Springfield, Ohio, died April 11 at a hospital in Pendleton, Oregon, from injuries received in an airplane crash. While details of the accident are not generally known, it was said that Pfau was fatally injured when a small plane in which he was flying crashed into the side of a mountain. Funeral services were held Monday from his home.

After graduating from Westminster in 1941, Pfau entered the Army Air Corps in September, and received his wings that same fall after completing his basic training. He was stationed on the West coast at the time of the accident.

Lt. Pfau was outstanding on both the football and track squads at Westminster. In his sophomore year, he made the Titan varsity eleven, holding down the left end position. He was also a star trackman for four years specializing in short dash events, hurdles and broad jump.

Before coming to Westminster, "Hunch" was a standout performer at Petersburg high school, New Springfield. He was a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity and Black W, varsity lettermen's club.

Cubs-White Sox Chiefs Optimistic

Foresee Successful Season Financially; Cubs Expect 700,000 Customers

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 20.—The optimism with which the Chicago Cubs and White Sox managements looked forward today to a successful baseball season, financially, was in striking contrast to their dolorous attitude a few months ago when travel restrictions were getting tighter and the armed forces were taking many of their star players.

The comparatively large attendances and the evident great interests of the fans during their abbreviated training camp season had much to do with their change of attitude.

Expects 700,000

General Manager James T. Gallagher of the Cubs not only has visions of equalling last year's approximate 600,000 attendance, but said the club had drafted this year's budget on the basis of entertaining 700,000 at Wrigley Field.

See Baseball Boom; Racing Is Prospering

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 20.—Purportedly, the war has killed off sports in this country, but actually, there has come out of the threatened doldrums a determined effort to preserve this characteriscally American form of diversion.

Baseball promises to boom with the opening of the major league season and horse-racing, already under way, is prospering.

The Japs can bomb and the Germans can counter-attack but, apparently, nothing is going to change the American thirst for sports.

Derby Interest High

The Kentucky Derby, coming up on May 1, for instance, is going to be one of the great sports events of this year. The crowd may be a little bit slimmer and perhaps the betting won't be as heavy as it was in the past, but the derby will be a success.

Baseball most certainly can't be next season what it has been in the past. It must be obvious that with all the stars gone the game

BOND CONTINUED

DETROIT, April 20.—The Case of James V. Orlando, Detroit Red Wing hockey star, was continued after a plea of innocence was entered and a bond of $2,000 was continued, here yesterday. Orlando is charged with perjury and violation of the selective service act.

CONN'S TRANSFER CONFIRMED

CAMP LEE, Va., April 20.—Transfer of Cpl. Billy Conn from Camp Lee to an unnamed post was confirmed today. The heavyweight title contender, who served as boxing instructor at Camp Lee, has left in a routine transfer of general service enlisted men to combat duty.

BRAVES BLAST RED SOX, 6-1

BOSTON, April 20. — Breaking loose with a five run spurt in the 10th, the Boston Braves murdered the Boston Red Sox, 6-1, here yesterday. A crowd of 2,000 fans was present at the Patriot's Day event. The second game was called in the third due to the weather.

EXPLAIN SHOE BUSINESS

HOOSIERS DRAW POOR POSITIONS IN PENN RELAY

Fifty-Two High School Teams Will Vie On Friday In Philadelphia

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—Indiana's defending champions today had fared poorly in the drawings for positions at the Penn relay carnival next Friday and Saturday at Franklin Field.

The Hoosiers, who captured both the distance medley and the four-mile relay last year, drew 11th and seventh positions respectively. Unbeaten Michigan, favorite in the two-mile championships, will also run from the eleventh spot.

Villanova won pole position in the distance medley relay; Manhattan took the inside spot in the sprint medley, and the U. S. Naval Academy will be in the pole spot in the four-mile relay.

Fifty-two teams are entered in the national high school relay meet on Friday, while only eight are entered in the national prep school sprint test.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Pvt. Russell Baxter, located at Fort Bragg, N. C., has already tasted of pugilistic success having defeated Irish Jack McGahan recently. McGahan, from Ireland originally, was a winner on the Olympics, held in Berlin in 1936, according to Baxter who added that he now weighs 190 pounds and on Saturday night last was to have fought Billy Cruez of California for the heavyweight title of Fort Bragg. When Russ left here he weighed 160 pounds. He is tall and no doubt the drilling, regular meals and early to bed and early to rise has earned him the heavyweight poundage.

Tonight, the writer, George Chip, former world's heavyweight champion, Tommy Leach, former World's Welterweight Champion Fritzie Zivic and Art Rooney, Pittsburgh grid and boxing promoter, will be guests at the Shenango Personnel Replacement depot where the first boxing show will be held. Chip and Zivic will referee some of the bouts which are being staged under the supervision of Lieutenant Berman formerly of Notre Dame.

'Tis peculiar the odd mementos a newspaper reporter collects. For instance today we have a wooden paper cutter souvenir, shaped like a daschund, from the Colorado state prison, it having been brought back by Sam Marino of Moravia street extension. While visiting his brother-in-law, Joe Tisone of Canon City, the latter took Sam through the prison and also into the gas chamber where persons sentenced to die meet their death through gas. Sam also visited the Royal Gorge, Pikes Peak and was enthusiastic about the Colorado scenery.

Count Fleet's Foot Healing; Off For Derby

Ailing Count Arrives In Louisville Today; No Sign Of Infection

PRICE ON FLEET NOW IS 1 TO 2

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 20.—Up to his hocks in bandages, and carrying with him the relieved sighs of a legion of Kentucky Derby winter book bettors, Count Fleet arrives in Louisville, Ky., today.

Scheduled to arrive on the same train, but receiving about as much attention as a couple of penniless in-laws, are two more derby candidates, Mrs. John D. Hertz's Whiz-Bang and Allen Simmons' Blue Swords. While the May 1 victory at Churchill Downs is already conceded to the Count, Whiz-Bang and Blue Swords are in the "hopeful" class; hopeful meaning, in this instance, a horse that is expected to trail the Count by no more than 70 yards.

Cut Is Healing

All the hullabaloo that was occasioned at Jamaica last Saturday, when the Count was found to have won the Wood Memorial after being cut by the sharp plates of Vicentive, simmered down to a murmur today. Yesterday, the sulfa-packed bandage was removed from the gashed left hind foot and the Count's wound was inspected. The cut is healing nicely and shows no sign of infection.

Prior to the Wood Memorial, Count Fleet was priced at 4 to 5 in the derby. Today, despite his injury, his odds are 1 to 2, the shortest price in the 69-year history of the race.

the right. Carmen then stepped in and took on Al Davis and won a split decision. Zivic had stopped Davis in their second go. Carmen would like to lay Padlo then grab a fight with Zivic.

ROSS TO ATTEND

Tomorrow night in Cleveland, Anton (The Greek) Christofordis will battle Lloyd Marshall in a light-heavyweight show that will contain many features. For instance, Sergeant Barney Ross, U. S. Marines who, with other marines went through the Japs on the Solomons, will be present. The Indians and Tigers also will be in the crowd. There will be a three-round exhibition between former World's Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane and Matt Brock, once Kilbane's rival. Mike Jacobs of New York will eye the main bouters as will scores of ring scarred veterans of yesteryear.

BASEBALL BOOM IS ANTICIPATED

must suffer. But we will take what is left and be happy for as long as it may go. Horse racing must fall off too and all other events but we will go along with that as though there was no difference.

Fleet Too Hot

Having come this far on generalities, it might be all right now if I step in there and say that Count Fleet can be whipped in the Kentucky Derby. I know positively that it probably won't happen, but I'm talking about what could be. Count Fleet is entirely too hot.

In sports you get wary of those red hot, "almost sure," things and by this time I'm looking for the horse that can beat the horse that everybody says can't miss.

I haven't the faintest idea which this might be. It could be any one of a hundred nominees, or any one of a dozen starters. All I know is that if you bet on Count Fleet you can't get an adequate return for your dough if he wins and if you bet against him you might lose.

Perhaps the answer to it all is don't bet on races, as somebody once remarked.

NOVIKOFF LONE HOLDOUT

NEW YORK, April 20.—With the singing of Frank Crosetti and Ernie Lombardi, Lou Novikoff, of the Chicago Cubs, is the lone major leaguer in the holdout ranks. That he'll ink a contract is only a matter of time.

Another dreadful thing about "nerves" is the strain of not assaulting and battering people who think you are putting on.

Job Transfers Are Possible To Aid War Effort

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—Thru amendment of the War Manpower Commission's regional employment stabilization plan, transfers from jobs in one essential activity to another at increased wages will be permitted in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware if the transfers are in the interest of the war effort, it was announced today by Louis B. F. Raycroft regional director of the War Manpower Commission.

The amendments were effected at a meeting of the regional war manpower committee, the management-labor advisory body to the regional war manpower director.

At the same time Raycroft and the committee put pressure on labor and management organizations to nominate representatives for 15 8-man area manpower committees, and approximately 125 appeals committees.

This action, Raycroft said, was to effectuate application of the employment stabilization plan and all other regional manpower policies at area levels, with machinery on hand to make necessary and permissible adaptation of policy to fit localized needs.

The appeals committee will function through local offices of the United States employment service (WMC). They will handle appeals from employers or workers who object to decision rendered by the United States employment service in permitting or denying workers in essential activities to change jobs, whether or not a wage increase is involved.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

ATTENTION . . . the following men have signed up for Edgewood Acres Victory Garden Plots . . . will they be kind enough to be present (or their representative) Thursday evening, April 22nd, at 7:30, 124 Fairfield Avenue. . . . A meeting to establish plots and the treatment of the land will be held at this time. It won't take long if every one is present and on time . . . these men please: John O. Boston, Charles Mathews, Norman Rape, John Floyd Jr., Robert Weinschenk, Frank Urban, William Patchell, E. O. Feass, R. G. McCartney, Wallace Kirkwood, Charles Allen, Joseph Kirkwood, O. C. Mauck, Robert Duff, Sam Frank, Rus Remaley, J. J. Alexander, Robert Boughter and the following Bell Telephone men, Bates, Beck, Alexander, Hurst, Weber, Carpenter and Miller.

If when you make your garden this season you are using a piece of land that hasn't been used for several years it might be wise to treat the soil for cut worms . . . without any cost to you a sheet of instructions may be secured from the County Farm Agent, L. C. Dayton, and his office is located in the Post Office Building on the diamond. It might be worth your while to investigate.

There are still some people who think that when they buy war bonds they are giving something . . . just what are you giving . . . you are lending your money to the best cause in the world . . . it's a very slight risk, in fact it is no risk at all. Your friends, your sons and sweethearts are the ones that are taking the risk . . . they are ready to give life which is much more valuable than all the money in the world. . . . Of course some people just can't see an inch in front of their nose. . . . If we were all to buy bonds think of the good time we could all have when the boys come home. . . . We help keep down inflation when we buy bonds. . . . You're just a fool if you don't put all your spare cash into War Savings Bonds. We have no right in saying that I suppose, but, don't you who won't buy bonds come crying around when these bonds come due asking the people who did buy them to keep you. Now is the time to prepare for the future . . . a dole system just can't work in a land of opportunity like the United States.

Keep the letters going to the lads in the services . . . they really appreciate the time it takes you to do the job. . . . May it all be over soon.

Many homes have not yet been solicited and the committee urges those that have been missed to buy bonds today from the People's bank, the Federal Savings and Loan company, the Post Office, or at either of the two local theaters.

Many solicitors are reporting refusals upon the grounds that persons are buying bonds on the ten per cent payroll deduction plan. This is true of most everyone, but by a little effort and sacrifice every one can buy an extra bond. The officials want everyone to buy bonds whether they are of large or small denominations.

"Fashions for Men, Young Men and Boys"

Finds WAAC Experience In Service Of Country Challenging, Thrilling

By LAURA A. TIFFANY
Third Officer, WAAC

British and Russian women have answered their country's call. The WAAC is America's challenge to our women. Will you accept it?

It must have been about the second week in June, 1942, that my conscience and I decided on the WAAC. I felt that in this project, the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps and my country could make better use of my training, energy and will to work.

I had an excellent teaching position in a Philadelphia high school and was just teaching my fourth class of adults in the Red Cross first aid course. There wasn't much time left over, but I knew that while the war was on, there were others who could fill my place.

When I first went to the recruiting station, it was with one, and only one, thought in mind—if Uncle Sam wanted me, I was waiting to go. I didn't expect adventure and glamor. I didn't even expect a good time. I looked for nothing but hard and satisfying work.

During the first week in August, I was thrilled to receive a telegram to report for my physical. I arrived as an officer candidate at Fort Des Moines on Aug. 31.

First in my training company, then in my classes, when I was assigned to teaching, and later in the "rookies". I "processed" while platoon commander in the Fourth Receiving company. I met and became attached to as fine and sincere a group of women as have ever worked together.

REASON BEHIND THE CORPS

Our educational program has no doubt made you conscious of the purpose of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps—you know that you can actually shorten this war, that you can help someone's son, someone's brother, someone's sweetheart come back from "over there". That is the big thing. That is the reason behind the corps.

Friendships were a help during those first few weeks. It isn't all easy—but it is all worthwhile. And strangely, too, it is the hardest assignment you ever had, the regulation you always innocently broke, that in memory, becomes that which you most enjoyed.

First Parade

After two weeks' training we marched in our first parade. We won that parade. No degree or honor I have ever received meant more to me than the knowledge that I was one small but necessary part in the honors we took in that, our first parade.

During the parade our captain managed a seat in the stands behind the visiting general, who was judging. As we passed by a very familiar voice rang out, "Boy, just look at those lines! Perfect! Absolutely perfect!" That was our captain. Back at the barracks, later, we waited for the news.

All "the old man" would say then was, "You weren't so bad, today—not too bad." Then came the news! New Year's night in Times Square is quiet compared to our barracks that night. Yes, one parade more than makes up for any bumps along the way.

Now, on my third assignment, I am on recruiting service. Now at last I have the chance to spread the good news.

On Recruiting Duty

My first recruiting assignment was in Virginia. My experiences were quite varied and very interesting. I spoke at many meetings and to many different types of people. I traveled in the trailer. And finally I was assigned to work with the Richmond Times-Dispatch on a WAAC Sunday supplement. During the 10 days we worked on this project, I talked, thought and lived newspaper work. Our section was a huge success. The very day following its publication, I was called to headquarters and since then have worked on similar projects in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Erie.

I am now in New Castle and have found the merchants very cooperative and appreciative of woman's place in this war.

I feel that my newspaper experience alone has more than compensated for any civilian privileges I may have given up to join the army. In the last two months I have secured endless sponsors for WAAC ads, have written and edited ad copy and articles, have posed for pictures, have composed layouts, made up slogans and had many meetings with various parts of the newspaper staff. Through my training while in the army, I have received an offer of a position from four newspapers. And there are many more cases like mine.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER
City Health Superintendent

TEACHER

Perhaps few of us realize the influence of the teacher upon the community.

Teachers in all grades have a great influence. Those of the lower grades have the most.

If teacher advises to use the tooth brush, Tillie will very likely scrub her teeth. Maybe Tom will too.

If teacher says that orange juice is good, Dad will hear about it right away.

If teacher says that vitamins are foods and not drugs, Bill will kid Mother about taking vitamin pills.

If teacher insists on washing the hands before eating, Jimmie will tell Aunt Eleanor about it.

If teacher finds nits in Esther's hair, the whole house will be in an uproar. The vinegar bottle and the kerosene can will be on the job.

The health department could not get along without teacher.

She insists that everybody shall gets lots of milk and eggs and fresh vegetables. She teaches that children should have eight or ten hours of sleep.

If they do not get enough food at home she knows about it right away. She tries to arrange for free school lunches. Apples taste better than pencils anyhow.

Lewis To Leave Employ Of City

City Council has granted the request of Paul J. Lewis, city bacteriologist for a leave of absence for the duration of the war, the bacteriologist having accepted a position with the chief of engineers, U. S. Army, in Panama. Lewis said today that he does not know the exact date of his departure.

In a letter to council Lewis said that he had received an offer from the chief of engineers, U. S. Army, medical corps branch. He told council he would like to accept for two reasons.

He said his first reason was because he is not tall enough for regular enlistment and secondly it will give him experience in the laboratory diagnosis of tropical diseases and make him a more efficient health official.
